WET WINDS BURNED, MANY DIE IN FOREST FIRES; EAST GRIPPED BY HEAT WAVE

Families Fleeing as Flames Wipe Out Homesteads

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

DULUTH (Minn.) Whipped to sudden fury by a brisk, shifting wind, numerous forest fires in the wooded country north of here wiped out two towns and several smaller settlements today, turned hundreds of persons out of their homes and took a death toll variously placed at from six to eleven.

HUMIDITY ADDING TO SUFFERING

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—New York tonight battled the closing hours of the hottest August it has experienced in nine years. The city, which has been in the clutch of a heat wave for two days, experienced some relief during the forenoon, in a marked drop of the thermometer, which continued to fall throughout the day. The low humidity was held responsible for the small number of heat prostrations recorded, although one man's death tonight was attributed to the heat.

From 3 to 10 o'clock in the morning the temperature rose ten points, and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon it stood at 91, the day's maximum temperature, and a point not reached on any August 17, according to the local Weather Bureau, since 1913.

With the closing in of night, the heat lingered and the oppressiveiveness returned as the humidity began to rise. Early in the evening every available inch of green at the Battery, in Bryant, Stuyvesant, Tompkins and other parks had been spread with newspapers and coats as throngs prepared to sleep at fresco. Others made beds on fire escapes and on countless house-tops.

DETROIT, Aug. 17.—Lower Michigan sweltered again today with Detroit experiencing the highest official temperature in the history of the local Weather Bureau. At 5 o'clock this evening the mercury reached 98. Numerous prostrations and several deaths were attributed to the heat.

FOUR DIE IN CHICAGO CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—With four deaths and scores of prostrations attributed to the heat reported in less than twenty-four hours, Chicago sweltered tonight, hopeless for relief from the hot wave. At 1 p.m. today the mercury had reached 98, but fell several degrees during the afternoon although the humidity registered around 70 degrees.

NEW HIGH RECORD INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 17.—The United States Weather Bureau thermometer here set a new high record for 1922 today when it registered 95 deg. at 3 p.m. One heat prostration was reported.

EIGHT PRSTRATED MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Aug. 17.—Eighteen persons were reported prostrated by heat here today when the thermometer reached 92 degrees. It dropped ten degrees within two hours, but was again at 92 o'clock. Weather Bureau officials declared there was no hope of relief until after noon tomorrow.

RELIEF PROMISED WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Promise of gradual relief from the heat wave has brought prostrations and death in some parts of the country was coaxed tonight by the Weather Bureau with the announcement that the area of lower temperature which appeared today over the Northwest would move slowly eastward after being shifted by showers and showers and reach the Atlantic Coast Saturday or Sunday night. No marked drop in temperature was to be expected, however, it was asserted. The current heat wave was recorded not as the hottest but the most widespread of the summer.

MAY SOLVE PROBLEMS

Franco-German Pact Near

Industrial Combination in Rich Districts, New Proposal

Negotiations Among Business Men Seen as Panacea for Troubles

(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—A powerful group of German industrialists headed by Hugo Stinnes is conducting negotiations with a similar French group for Franco-German industrial co-operation in the Luxembourg Ruhr-Rhineland region which if successful will lead to a separate agreement on the whole reparations problem. The Times correspondent is able to confirm this from German industrial circles as well as from sources of information close to the French embassy.

France, it is learned, would welcome such an understanding. This rather than the reparations commission and negotiations between the respective governments, is the hope to which many leading German industrialists are turning from the atmosphere of despair which is permeating the country in view of the continued decline of the mark with the great increase in the cost of living and the dislocation of national and state budgets.

BITTERNESS CONTINUES Bitterness against France, however, continues unabated, attacks being concentrated upon Poincare for his charge that Germany's critical financial position is due to deliberate sabotage of the mark. That Germany is facing an outburst of Bolshevism that will sweep Russia is the opinion of Dr. Karl Helfferich, former Vice-Chancellor, who said in an interview: "The catastrophe of the mark is simply the prelude to a great European catastrophe which will hit not only Germany but France, England and America as well. The only hope of averting it is a reasonable and practical adjustment of the whole reparations problem, including international debts."

"I well understand the disinclination of the United States to get involved in the affairs of Europe in the face of continued militarism. America must receive necessary guarantees in this regard, but cannot afford to stand idly by while Europe is speeding toward an unprecedented catastrophe to which the Russian Bolsheviks will appear as mere pawns."

Alfred Blum, director of the Deutschebank, Frank Ullrich, director of the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, and Adolf Baumbach, also declare that Poincare's charges are without foundation, pointing out that the value of the mark depends entirely on its standing abroad and that its collapse is due to the French policy, culminating in the failure of the London conference.

In British circles here German pessimism is tempered only by British coolness without at the same time underestimating German fears.

Marshal Helps Fast Train Out of Las Vegas

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

LAS VEGAS (Nev.) Aug. 17.—The Overland Express, the first Union Pacific system train to enter Las Vegas since the members of the Big Four went on strike here last Sunday, left on scheduled time tonight for Los Angeles.

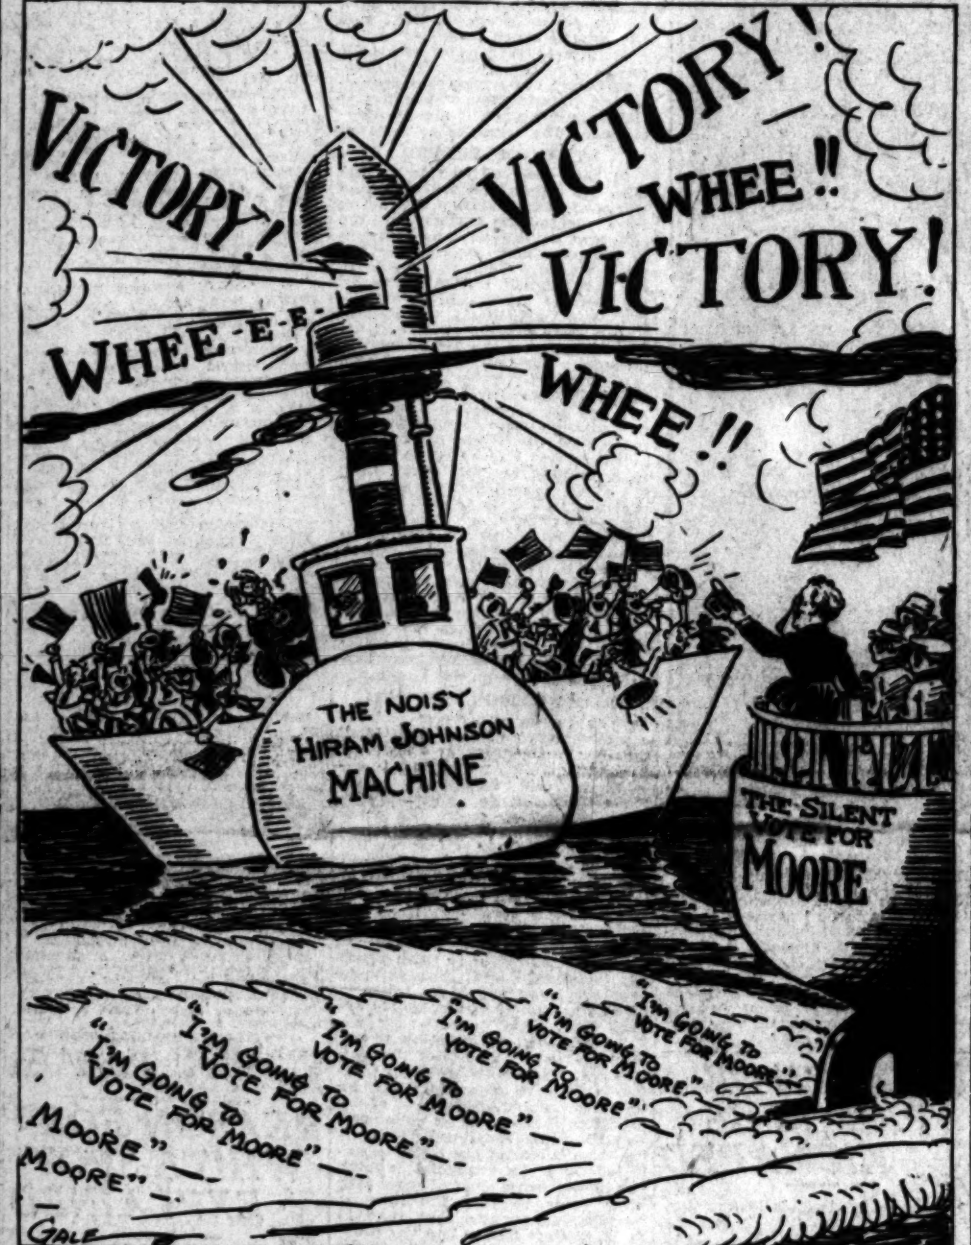

This train was led, watered and inspected by men replacing strikers under the armed protection of the United States Marshal, his deputies and the Nevada State police.

Fifty guards who had been in the stocks here were searched today by the State police, placed aboard the Overland Express and tonight were on the way to Los Angeles.

Chester Rowell, a long-time supporter of Johnson and now arrayed against him, was one of the principal speakers at tonight's meeting in Oakland, as was James Hyde of Stanford University, who has accompanied Moore since the campaign began actively some five weeks ago.

Both got in some hot shots on the career of Johnson and his inconsistency and Moore ended the program with an outline of why it was necessary to give the voters of California an opportunity to register protest against Johnson.

Remember Mark Twain's Steamboat That Had to Stop Every Time it Whistled?

MEMOIRS OF EX-KAISER IN AMERICA

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—A smartly gowned young woman wearing a crimson velvet hat and carrying two small cowhide bags stepped off an ocean liner at the White Star pier today. To other passengers filing down the gangplank or milling about the pier in search of baggage the departure of the crimson-hatted one from the deck of the Homeric meant no more than that another English girl—or, no, Scotch and an exceptionally pretty one—had landed in America.

Many of her fellow-passengers, to be sure, knew her as May Christie and realized that was the pen-name of a widely known British writer, her married name being Mrs. E. N. Martin. No one had an inkling that in one of the leather cases she carried was no less a document than the memoirs of former Emperor William of Germany, the original manuscript of events leading up to the World War by the man whose personality was the dominant human factor in the great conflict of its inception.

Miss Christie was the courier who brought the Kaiser's memoirs from London for the McClure syndicate, through which they will be distributed for publication by certain American newspapers, among them the Los Angeles Times.

President C. T. Brainerd, for McClure's, bought the Kaiser's manuscript and exclusive right to syndicate it throughout the world. It is said Mr. Brainerd obtained these rights because at a critical point in the negotiations at a table in Berlin at which he and others competing for the Kaiser's memoirs were seated he was successful because he was able to pay $250,000 in cash and planked down the equivalent in notes for $250,000 before the astonished eyes of the former Emperor's business agents.

On the voyage Miss Christie had the document in the steel safe of the ship's purser, and there it remained until the Homeric reached Sandy Hook. Newspaper correspondents who boarded the liner at quarantine, discovered Miss Christie's secret.

Noted Aviator Here • Lieut. Westside T. Larsen, Army aviator, who arrived in San Diego Wednesday after making the 1100-mile flight from San Antonio, Tex. in less than eleven hours elapsed time, landed here late yesterday. He flew from San Diego to Los Angeles in a little more than an hour, landing at Rogers Airport. He expects to resume his aerial journey to San Francisco.

Doctor Held Up Dr. C. H. West, 422 Broadway Building, reported to the police last night that he was held up by two men in an automobile at Alameda and Reservoir streets and robbed of a watch with $20 and a diamond ring valued at $600.

Rob, Burn Grocery Causing a loss of thousands of dollars, burglars early today looted and then set fire to a grocery store at 2920-22 West Slauson avenue, according to reports made to the fire department and the police. An automatic burglary alarm at the grocery store was quickly followed by a fire call. The building belonged to Mrs. Mary Riley and was occupied by Julius Bell, grocer. Owing to the distance from the nearest fire station, the blaze had gained considerable headway before the apparatus arrived.

WET WINDS ARE SANGUINE

Hold Out Hope to Thirsty

Organization Says Turning of Fifty Votes Will Mean Wine and Beer

Dry Deny Claims and Declare Them Born of Vivid Imaginations

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING (EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Beer and light wines within two years and possibly by next summer is the promise held out to the thirsty by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which is organizing throughout the country to carry the Congressional election for the consummation of this program.

A change of fifty votes would record the House in favor of 4 or 5 per cent beer and 10 per cent wine, according to the association. The organization's prime aim, therefore, in the November election will be to bring about the return of at least fifty wet Congressmen in place of that many dry incumbents. Numerous gains of this character already are being claimed by the association as a result of the primaries.

The dry declare these hopes are nothing else and that the results to date belie the claims put forth. The association working to restore beer and light wines has arranged for referenda on the question in Illinois, Ohio, Massachusetts and California. The object is to have the result of the referendum in each Congressional district and in the State at large accepted as instructions by the Senators and Congressmen for their votes on the question of modifying the Volstead Act in the next Congress.

In these and other States the association also is fighting for the re-election of wet Senators and Representatives wherever the situation offers a fair prospect of success.

In Nebraska the prohibition question figures prominently in the contest over the Senatorship. Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, is a wet and R. B. Howell, the Republican, is a dry. Hitchcock appears to have made peace with the association, which is reported to be scheduled to speak for the entire ticket.

ISSUE IN MISSOURI

Beer and light wines also will be an issue in Missouri where the contest over the Senatorship will take the wet side against R. R. Brewster, the Republican candidate for Senator, who defeated a beer and light wine opponent in the primary.

In Wisconsin a bone dry slate has been put up against La Follette and his associates in the Republican primary and in the majority of the Congressional districts prohibition is an issue. In a score of States more and more than 250 districts there are wet candidates.

There were no honorary pall-bearers.

The massive open coffin, covered with a pall of silk and gold was borne into the edifice by eight attendants of the Abbey. The funeral cortege filed past the tomb of the unknown British soldier on its way to the catafalque while the celebrant of the service repeated the stately sentences of the burial ritual. "I am the resurrection and the life."

BROTHER IN WHEEL CHAIR The casket was followed by Lord Northcliffe's widow, who, bowed with emotion, was supported by Lord Rothmans and Cecil Harmsworth, brothers of the journalist. Then came relatives and friends. George Harvey, American Ambassador, occupied a pew near the choir. Next to the widow the most pathetic figure in the cathedral was Lord Northcliffe's disabled brother.

NORTHCLIFFE AT REST

Simple and Solemn Ceremonies Mark the Passing of Britain's Foremost Journalist

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, Aug. 17.—Viscount Northcliffe, England's foremost newspaper magnate, died today in St. Marylebone Cemetery in Finchley, north of London, after a long illness.

His death was a blow to the country's newspaper world, which was deeply shocked by the news of his passing. The funeral was held in the cathedral of St. Paul, London, and was attended by a large number of dignitaries.

COLORADO MAY JAIL FOSTER

State Will Not Allow Red Leader to Return

Adj.-Gen. Hancock Makes Statement

Has Cell Ready to House Trouble-Maker

DENVER, Aug. 17.—William Z. Foster, Red labor leader, who was ejected from Colorado recently under orders of Adj.-Gen. Pat Hancock, would be jailed immediately if he were to attempt to carry out his alleged announced intention of returning to Denver to address a mass meeting, Col. Hancock announced today.

"I will order Foster placed in jail without a warrant, and I will have him kept there should he come back into the State," said Hancock.

"This action would give an opportunity to Foster and his associates to make a test case of the arrest and to determine the legality of the procedure."

Col. Hancock said his action would be taken on the assumption that it would be legal to arrest anyone whose presence in the State would "threaten to cause turmoil and strife."

NOT BEEN NOTIFIED

Referring to press dispatches from New York yesterday to the effect that the American Civil Liberties Union had directed attorneys to start court action against Col. Hancock and Gov. Oliver H. Shoup, both Hancock and Shoup stated that they had not been notified of such action.

"I am not inclined to say what we will do about Foster until the case presents itself," said Gov. Shoup at Colorado Springs today. "I know nothing of any suit except what I have seen in the press. The State will not act until there is need."

The Governor said this meant that it would be time enough to act after Foster should return to Colorado.

Foster was arrested by Colorado State Rangers August 6, shortly after he arrived here from Salt Lake City. He was escorted to the Wyoming State line and ordered not to return to Colorado.

PLANS OF FOSTER

(BY A. P. MONT WIRE.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—William Z. Foster, Red labor leader, who has been threatened with arrest by Col. Patrick J. Hancock, Adj.-Gen. of Colorado, if he returns to the State after having been escorted to its borders, is going back according to officials of the American Civil Liberties Union, which has agreed to conduct the legal aspects of his case.

"Foster will go back," said officials today. "It will not be until after August 27, because he has a meeting in Chicago then, but as soon as that is over he is going to return to Denver and we will arrange a meeting he will address."

GIVES JEWELRY TO ROBBERS

Woman Removes Ear-Rings Rather Than Suffer Injury

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Rather than have her ears torn off by two hold-up men who followed her into her garage and clutched at her diamond ear-rings, Mrs. B. P. Bergen of Brooklyn gave them the jewels and $3500 worth of other gems she was wearing, she told the police today in reporting a robbery which, she said, occurred Monday night.

"Gov. Shoup and Col. Hancock may not have received service of papers in the legal action we are going to bring, but we have instructed Carl Whittenburg, our Denver attorney, to start court action, and he will when he is ready. If they want to test the legality of Foster's arrest we are right with them, and will go along to the Supreme Court with them if it is necessary, as already happened when we appropriated the money to do it."

DIVORCED; NOW READY TO REPEAT

Frank Watling Admits He Hopes to Wed ex-Wife, Mayme Thorne

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Another page was written in the Frank B. Watling-Mayme Thorne romance today when it became definitely known that the couple, whose marital difficulties have brought them much into the public eye of late, are planning to be remarried in California within the next month.

Mrs. Thorne, widow of Raymond Thorne, a former president of Montgomery Ward & Co., divorced Watling, son of the head of the Watling Scale Company, on August 11, charging cruelty. But since that time they have been together frequently and for some time rumors that they would remarry have been rife among friends.

Mr. Watling, who has been living at the Ambassador Hotel, today confirmed the rumors.

"The divorce was all a mistake," said Mr. Watling. "We are both hot-headed and listened too much to what 'well meaning friends' had to say. I'm going to get away from Chicago and make a start elsewhere. We probably will be married in California some time soon."

Mr. Watling refused to discuss the case any further, but Chet Daube, a close friend of the couple who is connected with a loop brokerage concern, added further particulars.

"They are crazy about one another," said Mr. Daube. "Frank has been making frequent calls at the apartment at 220 East Pearson street, where they used to live. His former wife received him cordially. I was with them at the Marigold Gardens last night."

"That they are planning to remarry, I know," Frank told me he would leave for the Coast, probably to visit his mother in Los Angeles, within a few days. His former wife, I understand, is going to French Lick Springs shortly. In about three weeks she plans to follow Frank to California and they will in all probability be married there."

"They are leaving Chicago because they both believe and rightly I think, that if they get away from old connections and live in new surroundings they will find happiness."

DEMOCRATIC STRIFE

FOGGY IN NEW YORK

HEARST OFFERS TO HELP HYLAN BUT MAYOR WONT RUN

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—William Randolph Hearst and Mayor Hylan today complicated further the already very much mixed Democratic gubernatorial situation—Mr. Hearst in a statement to the newspapers offering to support Hylan for governor and the mayor by declining the proffered crown.

The publisher in his statement began an open fight on Al Smith and all "conservative Democrats" in response to the challenge flung at him by the former governor in his letter of Tuesday to Franklin D. Roosevelt offering to accept the Syracuse convention tendered to it by him.

Hearst suggested Hylan for governor and said he would run for any office on the Hylan ticket if asked to do so by the mayor. Hylan replied that he would not accept a State nomination "under any circumstances."

LeBaudy's 17-year-old daughter, Jacqueline, and her youthful husband, Roger Suedre, son of a Paris detective, also known as Harris, had become reconciled, had withdrawn annulment and divorce proceedings, instituted respectively by the wife and husband and were living together happily in Paris.

FEW CHANGES IN TARIFF BILL

Biggest Fight Centers on Cutlery Schedule

Amendments by Lenroot Are All Rejected

Shortridge Gets Protection for Grape Juice

(BY A. P. MONT WIRE.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Few changes in the tariff bill were made today or tonight by the Senate in the final drive to clean up individual amendments. When the Senate recessed work in the committee of the whole had been completed and tomorrow the bill will be started on the last stages to its final passage late Saturday.

The biggest fight today centered around amendments offered by Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, proposing to reduce duties on table knives, carving and similar knives; scissors and pocket knives. All three of his proposals were rejected.

First he proposed a 50 per cent limitation on table knives, but this amendment lost, 36 to 28.

Next he proposed a maximum of 100 per cent on scissors. This amendment was rejected, 33 to 29. A similar limitation on pocket knives was disagreed to, 33 to 26.

Senator Lenroot argued that the American people should not be asked to pay such "perfectly outrageous" taxes even to keep alive American industries.

Gooding, Idaho, and Stanford, Oregon, leaders of the Republican agricultural tariff bloc, said that if necessary to protect an American industry they would support duties as high as 4000 per cent.

Senator Gooding expressed the view that the people would "stand fast" any duty that might be necessary to protect American industry and labor from the cheap labor of Europe.

LENROOT DISAGREES

Senator Lenroot disagreed with this theory and declared he was not willing to support such duties as were proposed in the cutlery schedule.

The Senate eliminated retaliatory provision relating to wood pulp and news-print paper, which are on the free list. Under the provision the President would have been authorized to impose a duty of 10 per cent on these materials imported from countries, dependencies and provinces which imposed any export tax or other restrictions on the President would have added the amount of the export tax so imposed.

AIMED AT CANADA

Senator Oddie, Republican, Nevada, sought to have the 10 per cent duty provision stricken out, but Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, suggested that the entire provision be eliminated and this was agreed to. The provisions were aimed at Canada, it was explained.

Senator Oddie also sought to have paper placed on the free list, but this amendment was rejected.

The Senate approved an amendment in Senator Shortridge, Republican, California, proposing a duty of 70 cents a gallon on grape juice containing or capable of producing less than one per cent of alcohol. On such juice containing or capable of producing more than one per cent of alcohol the same rule would be applied with an additional rate of 35 a proof gallon on the alcohol contained in it or that could be produced from it.

MIDDLE WEST NEWS IN BRIEF

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 17.—Developments of the last few days have removed any likelihood of an immediate crisis in the coal supply situation, as far as the Marion county benevolent, charitable and correctional institutions are concerned.

At Muncie 400 men were thrown out of work today when the Kitzelman Fence Factory closed for lack of coal. Several other factories will be compelled to close later in the week unless a fresh supply of fuel is received.

L. C. Huesmann, chairman of the State Finance Committee for the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for Children, has announced that October 1 to 7 has been set definitely for the State-wide campaign to complete the raising of the building fund for the Riley Hospital.

ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17.—Fannie Hurst, the novelist, is visiting in St. Louis, her former home. When she finishes her dramatization of "Humoresque" due for an early production in New York, she will depart for Russia.

Missouri Building and Loan Association officials, most of whose concerns are not incorporated, are worried over the opinion of Atty.-Gen. Barrett that as at present constituted they are common-law trusts parking of the nature of lotteries and that to license them is contrary to the State constitution. Should the Supreme Court uphold Barrett's view, all the concerns organized as common-law trusts would be forced to incorporate.

DENVER

DENVER, Aug. 17.—The city of Denver voted, through the City Council, to advance $25,000 to insure speedy initiation of work on the Moffat tunnel. The Moffat commission now has $100,000 to start work on the pioneer bore at the western portal.

Denver was visited by a severe windstorm which caused considerable damage in various parts of the city, tearing several trees out of the ground, wrecking a few frame houses and smashing chimneys and other buildings.

WAR DECLARED ON HOT DOGS

Mayor of Evanston Facing Clamor of Multitudes Who Want Wienie

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—That delectable sandwich composed of an oblong bun, a "hot dog" and a dash of mustard today sent the residents of the exclusive suburb of Evanston into depression when Mayor H. P. Pearson ruled that the vendors would have to keep off the streets. Voiced first by the vendors, the call has spread over the beaches and now is sweeping before it on a tide of public clamor the city officials themselves. But the Mayor is defiant. "Nobody wants hot dogs," he declared. "The wagons are antiquated. They must keep moving. Indigestion and they are a wasteful extravagance. If the vendors don't do as I say I'll revoke all their licenses."

Senators' Bureau, Republican, New Mexico, are based on American instead of foreign valuation—an opinion framers of the tariff had desired to leave to the President—and are:

On coal-tar dye intermediates, 10% cents per pound and 75 per cent ad valorem, in place of the old rates of 7 cents and 50 per cent, and on finished dyes and color products, 10% cents a pound and 50 per cent, instead of 7 cents and 50 per cent.

WALK-OUT OVER AT ARIZONA POINTS

TRAFFIC TO CALIFORNIA HALTED ON SANTA FE BY RAIL TROUBLES

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
PHOENIX (ARIZ.) Aug. 17.—The "Big Four" walkout is at an end on the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix divisions of the Santa Fe system. The first break was yesterday, when a regular crew was secured in Phoenix for the Ashfork passenger train. In the evening at Prescott, which is division and shop headquarters, the men met to accept the recommendation of their Eastern chiefs and to notify the company officials they were ready for their runs.

A mixed train every other day will be run between Wickenburg and Parker and the usual train service has been resumed on the Clarkdale Jerome and Crown King branches.

Some freight is being cleared up on the branch lines but only local freight is being accepted here. The situation on the main line eastward is reported much the same, with the trains officially on the main line and the California divisions are clear there will be no work on the Arizona Santa Fe branches for a very large proportion of the men who have offered to return to their jobs.

ALAZEN MEETS FRENCH IN FINALS FOR "PRO" GOLF TITLE TODAY

"He Who Laughs Last..."

But the Spanish Davis Cup Team Doesn't Believe in Waiting

The three mirthful expressions shown above belong to Count de Gomar, Manuel Alonso and Jose Alonso, who believe in getting their snickers in early. They are playing the Australian Davis Cup team at Longwood Cricket Club now for the right to meet America for the world tennis championship.

CUP TEAMS DIVIDE

Australia and Spain on Even Footing After First Day's Play in International Tournament

BY WILLIAM T. TILDEN II.
Tennis Champion of the World, 1920-1921.
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—A foot fault, due to overexcitement on the match when Pat O'Hara Wood of Australia led Manuel Alonso of Spain, two sets to one, 6-3 and 40-30, cost the Antipodeans their commanding lead and tonight finds the two countries tied at one match all in the final round of the Davis Cup competition at the Germantown Cricket Club. It was a day of thrills and sensational happenings. Alonso, facing certain defeat, saved by his opponent's carelessness in delivery in what was an ace legally served, lifted his game to its greatest heights and dashed through to sensational five-set victory.

Seldom, if ever, has Pat O'Hara Wood played such tennis as he displayed in the first two sets against Alonso. The Australian star concentrated his attack on the backhand of the marvelous little Spaniard and by following up his opening, out of the returns for winning volleys or forced the Spaniard to net.

Five games, two in the first and three in the second set, were all Alonso could win while Wood was reeling off his two sets. The great difference was in the nets made by each man. Alonso piled up twenty-nine nets to twelve by the Antipodean. The two men were practically equal in outs and earned points.

In the third set Wood fell off perceptibly, while Alonso grew more accurate and steady. The marvelous little star from Madrid made but eight errors, all nets, in this set, not committing a single out. The set was his at 6-2.

ALMOST VICTORIOUS
Then came the fireworks. Alonso is a bundle of nerves and was going like a race horse at the end of the third set. The rest stopped him completely. Wood returned to the court freshened and determined to make short work of his opponent. He nearly succeeded, for he rushed away with a big

MARKS AND SILVA MEET IN MAIN GO

Lavigne to Tackle Gray Tonight at Legion Hollywood Arena

Georgie Marks, Coast bantamweight champion, is again called upon to defend his title. He meets Teddy Silva tonight in the main event at the American Legion Hollywood arena. Silva is sincere in his efforts to be in the best possible condition and should, offer the champion the stiffest competition he has ever had. In a former meeting between the pair they battled four terrific rounds to a draw, and tonight's mill will very likely settle the argument for good.

Matchmaker Frank Crowley imported Bobby Gray from Denver for the semi-main event with Georgie Lavigne. The latter has cleaned up all welterweights available, but is expected to run into a hard nut to crack when he squares off with Gray.

A brace of brawny, battling light heavyweights are Geo. Lavigne and Fred Brady, who are hooked up in the feature preliminary bout of the evening. One of these big boys should topple over sometime before the final gong sounds.

Jack Burns, the sensational 135-pounder, is matched with Walter Greykay, a tartar from Milwaukee. Jimmy Fitten, champion 126-pounder of Mexico, is to meet Mickey Dempsey.

The remainder of the card: Johnny Lee vs. Louis Stegmeyer, and James McQuinn vs. Frank Jerome. George Blake will referee.

Manager Roy Marshall announced last night that tonight's show will mark the first anniversary of the stadium. Over 150,000 people have passed through the turnstiles during the year, he declared.

TOM BUNDY BEATEN IN CANADA TENNIS

(BY A. P. MORT WIRE)

WINNIPEG (Man.) Aug. 17.—T. C. Bundy of Los Angeles, former United States champion, was eliminated in the men's open singles competition of the Western Canada hard court tennis championships here yesterday by George Sparling of Winnipeg, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4.

Bundy, paired with Wright of Winnipeg, defeated Wood of Toronto in the men's doubles, 6-2, 6-1.

MONDT IN TRAINING

Toots Mondt, local heavyweight grappler, began active training at the Union League Club yesterday for his bout with Wladek Zhyzsko in one-half of the double feature to be staged by Umberto Rovers at the American Legion Hollywood arena a week from tomorrow night. Mondt has beaten all comers, but is expected to have his hands full when he faces the world-famous gladiator, who is now on his way to the city from Mexico.

Rensato German, Italian heavyweight champion, is scheduled to engage Jimmy Apollo, a Grecian wonder, in mat warfare in the other half of the feature bill. Gardini has been doing some sensational work in San Francisco and has become a great favorite with the Bay City fans.

Douglas Park and Carl Johnson are to appear in the preliminary bout. They are middleweights. "Boo" Montana was yesterday selected to act as referee at the gala grappling festival. The mat carnival was originally scheduled for Aug. 23, but was postponed because Zhyzsko would not arrive until too late for the match.

BULL MONTANA IN MAT BOUT TONIGHT

"Bull" Montana and Eddie O'Connell meet tonight in a special handicap wrestling match to be held at the Covina American Legion stadium. "Bull" must throw O'Connell twice within an hour to win, according to the terms of the match. O'Connell, United States amateur champion at 135 pounds, will take on Johnnie Humerich for the best two out of three, with a ten-minute limit. Walter Miller of the Los Angeles Athletic Club will referee.

CALIFORNIA WINS AGAIN

Sir Tom Finishes Third in Consolation Yacht Race at San Pedro; Lady Gay is Second

Southern yachtsmen yesterday regained supremacy in Class E sloop racing trips with the finish at Los Angeles Harbor of the third and final heat of the Los Angeles Athletic Club trophy race. The California, racing under the colors of the California Yacht Club, made a clean sweep of the series as Matt Walsh brought her across the line a scant ninety seconds ahead of the Corinthian Yacht Club's Lady Gay.

Ted Geary, in the Sir Tom, made a desperate try for the lead in the heat of yesterday's heat, but his boat was a game fight with the Lady Gay, the San Francisco boat nosing him out by two minutes. The Sir Tom failed at all stages of the L.A.A.C. race to show the speed and sailing qualities with which she walked away with all events in the Pacific Coast regatta at Newport. The Angela, also entered by the R. Boat Syndicate of the California Yacht Club, was away badly and was not dangerous at any point of the course. She was sailed by Frank A. Garbutt.

A brisk westerly breeze blew over the course during the race, extending from the outer harbor to Long Beach. The times, at the finish of each leg, were as follows:

Boat	First Leg	Second Leg	Third Leg	Total
California	1:22.49	2:19.23	3:04.13	6:45.85
Lady Gay	1:35.07	2:32.47	3:28.07	7:35.61

Preparations are under way at the California Yacht Club for the second De Mille trophy race for motorboats which will be run over a course in the outer harbor on the second Sunday in September.

The California Yacht Club, which will be a ninety-nine-mile course, run in three heats. On the last Sunday in September, it was announced last night, the speed ships of the 600-inch displacement class will fight it out between breakwater light and Point Fermin over a course going of the Fellow's day course.

THREE DOZEN OWNERS

Contrary to the general impression, the California and Angela, the two speedy "V" boats of the California Yacht Club, are not owned by one man, but thirty-eight sportsmen have shares in them. Following are the members of the syndicate: Thomas P. Allen, Henry W. Keller, Robert March, Fred H. Williams, Irving R. Williams, W. F. Smith, Sam R. Meyer, Thomas R. Ford, T. E. Smith, J. C. Denman, Don Lee, Mack P. P. Fay, A. C. Denman, Don Lee, P. D. Brown, Keith Winkler, Cecil R. De Alvin, Frank Albert, Richard J. A. Scott, Earl Davis, W. W. Allen, C. H. Ferguson, Calvin Patterson, R. #### KINSEY LOSES TO JOHNSTON

"Little Bill" Reaches Final Round at Newport

Meets Kelleher for Laurels This Afternoon

Californian Fears Hoodoo in Match Today

(BY A. P. MORT WIRE)

NEWPORT (R. I.) Aug. 17.—"Little Bill" Johnston of San Francisco, advancing to the final round of the Casino singles tennis tournament today, found himself facing both an opponent and a hoodoo for the final round too. The opponent will be H. O. Kelleher of New York, a few years out of Harvard, whose high place in this tournament is his greatest success to date. Without belittling his fellow finalist "Little Bill" tonight was inclined to consider the hoodoo seriously. The final lies in the fact that in all four Newport tournaments in which he has played, he has failed to win, although each year ranking high or highest among players of the nation.

In some instances Johnston's light has been dimmed by previously inconspicuous stars. Kelleher is one, and "Little Bill" a successful veteran on the courts the world around, feels he will be opposed by both his opponent in the final and the unseen hoodoo. Kelleher's advance was the result of good play against players of fair standing and was the result too, of the collapse of the needed scheme in the lower half, due largely to the defeat of R. Norris Williams. Kelleher's qualifying match in the semifinal round was with N. W. Niles of Boston, the scores being 7-5, 3-6, 6-3. Kelleher proved himself a fighting opponent.

TOP FORM
"Little Bill" was in his best stroke playing H. O. Kelleher, also of San Francisco. In the two sets, decided 6-2, 6-2, he was kept busy by the dextrous top spin player but finished off with telling points in the pinches.

Three of the foreign players were eliminated by defeats in the doubles play. Andre Gobert and Jean Borotra of France went out together in the liveliest match of the tournament, defeated by their compatriot, Henri Cochet, and N. W. Niles. It was a straight set result, 6-4, 7-5, but full of sparkling shots. R. C. Wertheim of Australia, playing with H. C. Johnson of Boston, made a serious bid to gain the semifinal round, but after winning, 6-4, they were turned back by H. O. Kinsey and R. Kinsey of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-4.

The Kinsey brothers, Pacific Coast champions, will meet Cochet and Niles in one semifinal tomorrow.

R. N. Williams II and Watson M. Washburn play in their Davis Cup form, went ahead to the other semifinal by defeating the Leland Stanford university team of Phil J. Neer and James Davies, 6-4, 7-5. The youngsters forced Davis to play to high level, Williams of San Francisco and E. Howard Voshell of New York met youthful tars in C. M. Bull, Jr. of New York and W. A. Washbrook of Detroit. The boys carried the veterans twenty-four games to a 13-11 first set and, extended the second to 7-5.

Red Killefer Returns to the Line-up After Absence

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS

The Oaks exhibited their penchant for poking the ball with vigor by defeating Los Angeles, 7 to 3, in the second game of the series. Ray Kremer was too strong for the home guards, allowing only two hits in the first seven rounds. Killefer resorted to Crandall, Dumovich, Douglas and McCade without getting desired results. Doc Crandall, top sergeant of the rotation, and erstwhile leader of the Lost Battalion, gravitated to the position of private in the ranks with the reappearance here of the peerless Red Killefer after a perilous journey by Pullman through the desert country. Red took charge of the club and Doc patriotically volunteered to check the hand grenade, gravitated to the position of private in the ranks with the reappearance here of the peerless Red Killefer after a perilous journey by Pullman through the desert country. SEATTLE, Aug. 17.—The score, 15 to 3, tells the story of an uninteresting drubbing of Portland by Seattle in the Coast League ball game here today, making the series two to one for Seattle. The batting of Lane and Eldred counted heavily in Seattle's total. Cole, pitcher in the home state, was effective for the Indians, and was replaced by Walberg in the second inning. The score:

JAKIE MAY GETS HIS'N

Seals Knock Tiger Twirling Ace Out of Box in Third Frame of Crucial Series

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—The two leading pitchers of the league hooked up here today. Jim Scott went the whole route. Jakie May was lifted after he had worked only three rounds. He was badly beaten by that time, so Bill Ewack wisely took him out and saved him for another day. The Seals won the game, 8 to 1 and what was expected to be the keenest contest of the year, proved to be an easy win for Scott.

Scott was in trouble up to his neck in the first inning, but after he got out of that mess without being scored on, the tigers were lucky to score at all. A long fly by Ham Hyatt struck the top of the right-field fence in the eighth, and while Seals Miller was running around in circles trying to retrieve the ball as it bounced off the fence, old Ham legged it around to third. He scored after Trunk Hannah went out on a long fly to O'Connell.

But Capt. Jim had to do some careful pitching to get out of the hole in the first round. Chadbourne opened with a hit and High bunted him to second. Smith got a hit, but Kelly got the ball back to the plate so fast that Chadbourne could not score. Smith took second on the throw-in, however. Men on second and third, with Ping Bodie, Ham Hyatt and Trunk Hannah coming up, was not a pleasant prospect for Capt. Jim. Ping swung with all his soul and strength, but Scott knocked the ball down and threw Chadbourne out at the plate. Then Hyatt was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases again. Hannah retired the side with a fly to Kelly, and the locals heaved a big sigh of relief. Capt. Jim was never in trouble after that. Score:

ROOKIE TIGHTENS UP AND SACS TRIM BEES

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 17.—With the necessary runs on the sacks in the ninth inning and with the league's leading hitter, Paul Strand, at the plate; with Prater wobbling and in the hole, it looked dubious for Sacramento here at the Moreland lot today. Then the rookie pitcher steadied, evaded up on Strand and finally caused him to pop an easy one to Mollwitz for the ultimate putout. Thus the Solons triumphed for a third straight win over the Salt Lake Bees. Score 6 to 4.

PLANT TO COST HALF MILLION

Structure to be Double-Deck Concrete Affair

South Park Avenue Approved as Building Site

Angels to Boast Best Ball Orchard in Loop

William Wrigley, Jr., plan to build a $500,000 ball park at Thirtieth-ninth street and South Park avenue was approved yesterday afternoon by a unanimous vote of the City Council and plans have already been started for its erection. Several property owners in the neighborhood objected against the permit being granted but the City Council overruled these protestations by deciding that a ball park would not be detrimental to the district.

According to the present plans of Wrigley, the new park will be strictly modern in every sense of the word, and will be built of concrete. There will be a double-deck reinforced grandstand capable of holding 10,000 people and a bleacher capacity of 11,000. This will give Los Angeles one of the largest ball orchards in the Coast League and the most modern one in the west.

VINE-COVERED WALKS

The walls of the park will be of cement and covered with vines. No glaring signs will deface the outside of the fence.

For years Los Angeles has needed a new base ball emporium as the present one is the worst in the league and it's grandstand is not adequate to hold the crowds in this city. Thousands of customers are turned away every Sunday because the grandstand is filled up too quickly. This is the age of grandstands, anyway, and the largest city of the coast should have one capable of holding a large crowd.

The present park is a wooden affair, a veritable fire-trap and an eyesore to the city. Exits at Washington street are poorly arranged, as is the whole plant, and it takes a half-hour to unload the Sunday crowds. At the new field there will be plenty of exits and they will be built with a slight incline, thus aiding the emptying of the crowd.

COMPLETED IN TWO YEARS

Mr. Wrigley has been angling for the property at Thirtieth and South Park for several weeks. Part of the site of the future park is occupied by residences and it will be some time before they can be moved. The new park will probably be completed by the spring of 1934 or '35, in time for the opening of the season then.

Seals Knock Tiger Twirling Ace Out of Box in Third Frame of Crucial Series

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—The two leading pitchers of the league hooked up here today. Jim Scott went the whole route. Jakie May was lifted after he had worked only three rounds. He was badly beaten by that time, so Bill Ewack wisely took him out and saved him for another day. The Seals won the game, 8 to 1 and what was expected to be the keenest contest of the year, proved to be an easy win for Scott.

Scott was in trouble up to his neck in the first inning, but after he got out of that mess without being scored on, the tigers were lucky to score at all. A long fly by Ham Hyatt struck the top of the right-field fence in the eighth, and while Seals Miller was running around in circles trying to retrieve the ball as it bounced off the fence, old Ham legged it around to third. He scored after Trunk Hannah went out on a long fly to O'Connell.

But Capt. Jim had to do some careful pitching to get out of the hole in the first round. Chadbourne opened with a hit and High bunted him to second. Smith got a hit, but Kelly got the ball back to the plate so fast that Chadbourne could not score. Smith took second on the throw-in, however. A NEW ARRIVAL

COMPOSER OF "INTOLERANCE" MUSIC HERE

By William Foster Elliott

A recent addition to the city's musical colony is Joseph Carl Brüll, composer and conductor, who arrived early this week and intends to make his home here.

Mr. Brüll composed the incidental music for D. W. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation," and for "Intolerance." The "Birth of a Nation" music was only used in the East, but the score for the other Griffith opus will doubtless be remembered by many local film fans.

An opera entitled "The Legend" by Mr. Brüll was produced about three years ago at the Metropolitan in New York with two other operas by American composers, one of which was the "Banshee" of Cadman. According to the composer, "The Legend," a tragedy with its scene laid in the Balkans, will be produced during the coming season in Chicago by the Chicago Civic Opera Foundation.

At present Mr. Brüll has no very definite plans for the winter. He may open a studio, but his more immediate interest is in the direction and composition. It is also possible that he may compose some motion picture scores. He is now working on an overture and a suite for orchestra, which are nearly completed.

Franklin With Warner

Latest report from Warner Brothers has it that Sidney Franklin has been engaged by that organization to direct their forthcoming production of Charles G. Mordaunt's novel of marriage, "Brass."

Mr. Franklin's work is, of course, too well known to need any comment here, though it may be advisable to recall that he made "Smiles Through" with Norma Talmadge, and has recently completed "East is West" with Constance of that family.

At present Mr. Franklin is on a short vacation out of town, and the shooting of "Brass" will begin immediately upon his return. The cast for the production has not yet been selected, but will be announced before long.

Joins Roach Forces

CRAIG HUTCHINSON TO DIRECT SNUB POLLARD

Craig Hutchinson, one of the foremost comedy directors on the West Coast, has been added to the directorial force of the Hal Roach Studios at Culver City.

Mr. Hutchinson has been engaged to alternate with Charles Parrott in the production of the new series of two-reel comedies in which Snub Pollard is to star for Pathé release.

Actual shooting on Mr. Hutchinson's first picture with Pollard has been completed, and from all accounts it is one of the best of the Pollard series.

Hutchinson came to the Roach studio from Universal, where he was engaged in comedy direction for some time. He has also been associated at various times with the Bennett and Fox comedy forces and for a time assisted King Vidor.

STAGE COMEDIAN SIGNS

Don Barclay, stage comedian, has been signed by Jack White, to be co-starred in forthcoming musical comedies, with Lige Conley, who has already achieved recognition as one of the coming funny men of the screen. "I believe that Don Barclay is one of the most promising comedians in pictures," says Jack White. "Although he lacked previous camera experience his funmaking ability in 'Look Out Below,' the first of my new series of Marmalade, was so inimitable that I decided to give him an opportunity on an equal starting basis with Lige Conley. Both of these comedians are decidedly distinctive in style." Don Barclay is an unusual character. He began his career as a newspaper cartoonist, and speedily developed a genius for caricature that led him to portray the art in person on the stage. To Ziegfeld discovered him shortly after he discovered the famous signa part. He soon became a featured comedian of the Ziegfeld shows he made his debut as a headliner in the big vaudeville theaters.

SOME ACTORS!

A giant negro strolled into the office of the Hope Hampton Studio, where the star was busy filming her new First National picture, "The Light in the Dark." "Are you an actor?" asked an assistant director. "Actor?" croaked the big guy; "why, man—Ah, can play any part in any picture 'ceptin' de lead in 'Little Lord Fauntleroy'!" There being no immediate need for his services he was asked to leave his card. On the corner of his pasteboard was printed: "I specialize in 'Nubian slaves,' 'Congo Kings,' and 'Masc bushmen!'"

POPULAR STAR FAILS TO SHOW UP IN NEW YORK

By Edwin Schallert

Latest word from New York is that Rodolph Valentino has not yet arrived in that city. A late dispatch from the East contained this information.

Mr. Valentino had not yet been heard from by the Famous Players-Lasky Company in New York, according to a statement given out at their offices late in the afternoon.

At the Rialto Theater Mr. Flynn, speaking for Manager Hugo Rosenfeld, stated that no arrangements had been made officially to welcome the star, and that they had no word from him as to his whereabouts.

"We are not going to meet Valentino with a brass band," said Mr. Flynn, "but if we hear from him we will meet him and see that he is made comfortable and at home."

The fact that Mr. Valentino has not yet turned up is regarded as peculiar, because previous dispatches indicated his presence in Chicago last Tuesday. We wonder whether the fair Windfall is still in the Airborne and whether Valentino is not perhaps visiting her there. She would, of course, be chaperoned by her parents to conform with the legal restrictions.

NOTED SOLOIST

Sacha Jacobinoff at the Bowl

One of the great violinists of the day is to appear as soloist with the Herts forces at the Bowl next Saturday night, when Sacha Jacobinoff will play the Tchaikowski concerto.

Jacobinoff came west to give six concerts at the University of California. Mrs. J. J. Carter, hearing that this virtuoso was in the State, telegraphed him, asking him to appear at the Bowl. Mr. Jacobinoff, who had already heard of the Bowl concert, came to Los Angeles at once so that he might have several days to hear the orchestra before his appearance on Saturday.

He will leave immediately after the concert for New York.

Jacobinoff is the most celebrated violinist who has yet played at the Bowl. He has been soloist fourteen times with the Philadelphia Symphony, six times with the New York Symphony under Damrosch, twice with the Boston Symphony, and once each with the Chicago, Minneapolis and Detroit orchestras. His concert tours take him all over America, and he is a great favorite in Europe.

MAKES HOUSE RECORD

Of the many plays Thomas Wilkes has produced in the past three years it has been left to Edward E. Rose's exciting comedy-drama, "The Rear Car," to establish a new house record for the Majestic Theater, under the Wilkes management. Last week's attendance, which broke all previous records, is a proof of the popular character of the play and the drawing power of Richard Bennett in the leading role.

Present indications are that "The Rear Car" will enjoy an extended run, for it is being played to capacity houses at each performance.

ARCTIC FROLIC

Wear your goggles and ear muffs if you anticipate attending the "Arctic Frolic" at Cinerama Roof tonight, for the weather man has forecasted a dark and stormy night. A heavy snowfall, sleet, sleet and snow will be the program, and snowballs may be had for the asking. It is reported that a terrific storm will take place around the hour of 10:15 o'clock. Many illustrious stage folk will be on hand to witness the catastrophe. Harry Carroll's new song success, "When Winter Comes," was the inspiration for the "Arctic Frolic" tonight.

TWINS GRACE

FILMLAND HOME

Two baby girls, twins, have been added to the household of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beaumont. They arrived yesterday at the Good Samaritan Hospital and mother and children are reported doing nicely.

Mrs. Beaumont will be more readily remembered by motion-picture fans as Hazel Daley, who appeared in the "Skinner's Dress Suit" series of pictures with Bryant Washburn several years ago and in three productions with Tom Moore, all of which her husband directed. Mr. Beaumont is now a director at the Metro studios in Hollywood. It is a strange coincidence that Mr. Beaumont is himself a twin.

For several months Mr. Beaumont has been busy with tentative plans for a bungalow, which he was planning to build in Beverly Hills, but with the arrival of the daughters he made a rapid shift in the arrangements and immediately let a contract for the construction of a ten-room, two-story house.

Virtually Half of People in State Saving

(BY A. P. N.)

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 17.—Virtually half of the people in the state are saving, according to a report made public today by the State Savings Bank.

The report, which is supplementary to a report made public last week in San Francisco, says that the State Savings Bank is the largest of its kind in the country.

As an indication of the people's interest in saving, the bank has only one to two percent of the total population of California. I have only to recall the wonderful increase in the number of patrons of our banks during the period of five years. On June 30, 1917, the depositors in the State Savings Bank were 1,184,940, of whom the greater number, 1,160,000, were depositors in our savings banks.

Five years later the depositors in the State Savings Bank had increased to 1,000,000, and the total increase in the number of banks in this state was 100.

ASSETS SHOW GAIN
"It is also important to observe that during the same period the assets of the national banks in the state increased from $609,581,000 in 1917, to almost $1,000,000,000 in 1922, or to be exact $954,456,000.

Beauty spots at Verdugo Woodlands
Here are four reasons why sales activity at Verdugo Woodlands is increasing daily—why sales for July and August are nearly double those of last year:

1. Thoughtful people are becoming tired of the noise, dirt and congestion of the flat, uninteresting city. They want the clean, pure, health-giving atmosphere of the country—with its picturesque green-clad hills.

2. People who think for themselves, realize that Verdugo Woodlands is not a mere "tract"—but a veritable park—a picturesque wooded valley right in the city of Glendale—a super-value in residence property at absurdly low prices.

"Checkerboard subdivisions" in the low sections of greater Los Angeles will be exploited for the next 25 years—but there will never be another Verdugo Woodlands.

No other place can ever duplicate the wonderful trees, the living canyons, the waterfalls, shaded dells, canyons, sun-kissed knolls, hillside paths, soft mountain water, high elevation, balmy atmosphere, cool summers and warm winters of Verdugo Woodlands.

Verdugo Woodlands is a value-spot. It offers a super-investment opportunity—better than stocks, bonds or mortgages. It offers security and should increase several hundred per cent in value. It offers residential advantages and attractions beyond anything in Los Angeles at present prices as low as $950. Values are climbing—watch for a sudden advance in prices.

OUT OF JAIL AND IN AGAIN

Former Official of Ontario Has Stormy Time

New Bondsmen Ask Court to be Relieved

Accused Man Anxious to Tell Story to Jury

ONTARIO, Aug. 17.—Off again, on again, off again, in again.

Thus briefly might be recited the case of Fred Alford, former City Manager of Ontario, said to have embezzled more than $100,000 from the city treasury, who was again in jail this afternoon. One of the bondsmen who came to his rescue when his original guarantors withdrew asked to be released.

Mr. Alford was taken into custody yesterday when Judge J. P. Pollock, J. R. Hays and J. P. Enaley, who went his original bond for $50,000 withdrew. He was again at liberty this morning following the preparation of new bonds which bore the signatures of D. R. Lee, citrus rancher; M. James Kennedy, real estate fruit rancher, and Grace H. Alford, wife of the defendant.

When Mr. Kennedy asked to withdraw, however, Alford was again taken into custody this afternoon. Mr. Kennedy could not be found this evening for a statement as to his reason for withdrawal, but it was reported that he did not feel sufficiently protected with Mr. Alford, the other signer of the bond, when all her property is involved in attachments levied by the city at the time of Alford's original arrest on fraud charges.

Although Mr. Alford's attorney announced that he had instructed his client not to answer questions asked by the grand jury the former City Manager was quoted today as saying that he was willing to answer any and all questions and stood ready to explain his every action. He declared himself absolutely innocent. City officials who have participated in the investigation are quoted as declaring that from their point of view there is only one explanation for scenes of the alleged fraudulent transactions which have been discovered in the investigation.

THUGS NEAR VENICE IN SPEEDSTER

Three Men in Hudson Car Operating on Washington Boulevard

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent [EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENICE, Aug. 17.—For the second time in two days autoists on Washington Boulevard were terrorized by three bandits operating in a high-powered Hudson speedster early today. Attempting to hold up George Day of San Francisco, the trio was audacious enough to chase Day to the city limits of Venice before attempting to escape.

Day, with a party of friends, was held up early yesterday morning by three men in a Hudson speedster. About the same hour this morning a trio, which he believed to be the same men, attempted to crowd him off the road. He turned around quickly and sped for Venice. Looking back, he was surprised to see the asserted bandit car following at a high rate of speed.

He notified the police of Venice and Culver City. Machine loads of officers, armed with sawed-off shotguns, searched until daybreak without sighting the car. While Venice officers were searching they encountered two other sets of motorists, who said that three men in a Hudson speedster had stopped them and attempted to hold them up, but had been frightened off by approaching cars. Because of the necessity for speed the officers neglected to ascertain the names of the occupants of the cars.

Officer Shoots at Fleeing Man; Hits Bystander

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent [EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, Aug. 17.—Shots fired by Detective Sergeant O'Rourke at a fleeing Mexican near the heart of the Pasadena business section caused excitement here today and the wounding of one innocent bystander. Ray Turner, 18, of 2945 Nina street, Pasadena Park. The Mexican also was brought down with a flesh wound in the leg. He said he was E. Brode of 1844 Edmeston Alley. Sergeant O'Rourke and Hetta had arrested Brode and Sarapio Gomez of 1040 1/2 Dayton street and charged them with possession of goods stolen from local department stores. Near the police station Brode broke away from O'Rourke and darted down Exchange Alley, a few steps from Colorado street. O'Rourke fired five shots after him and Turner stopped one of the bullets. The wound to the leg was taken to Pasadena Hospital, where it was found he had a flesh wound in the leg similar to Brode's. The prisoner's injury was dressed at the Emergency Hospital.

Motorist's Conscience the Kind That Demands Action

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 17.—An old-fashioned man with a conscience made himself known to the Sheriff's office yesterday. He was driving out the Box Springs Boulevard, he explained, and in backing off the road his car crushed one of the trees which the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce assisted the county road department in planting recently for the beautification of that portion of the road leading to March Field.

Although he was traveling in the opposite direction, this unusual man, who said he came from Newport, called upon the Sheriff in order that he might be required to make good the damage done.

W. H. Chatman Arrested Near Barstow Charged With Fraudulent Sale

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent [EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Aug. 17.—Walter H. Chatman, former business man of Long Beach, is under arrest here today on a charge of grand larceny, following a long chase over desert lands that took Detective Barney Kane on an automobile trip of 800 miles. Chatman was arrested by Kane in the desert ten miles this side of Barstow late yesterday and was brought back to this city.

Chatman's arrest grew out of a complaint laid before Justice W. J. Bratton, in which T. L. Girard, 315 East Twentieth street, asserted that he had recently purchased Chatman's half interest in a bottling works and that Chatman had defrauded him. The case was dismissed this afternoon.

Accompanied by the complainant and armed with a warrant, Detective Kane set out in an automobile for Arizona, where Chatman was said to have gone. At Longview, the officer, believing that he had passed his quarry, turned back. Just this side of Barstow the officer's automobile and that driven by Chatman met in the desert and Chatman was placed under arrest.

MUNICIPALITY TO RUN WATER PLANT

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, Aug. 17.—The Marengo Company water plant will come under city control August 26. Completion of condemnation proceedings on this $145,000 property has been the last obstacle to the co-ordination of the system for which $25,000 in bonds was voted more than two years ago.

An interesting feature of the new system will be that South Pasadena as a city will be actively engaged in a business enterprise within the city limits of the city of Pasadena. Two wells of the Marengo Company are situated within Pasadena. A portion of the new South Pasadena municipal system comprises pipe lines within South Pasadena laid by the Pasadena system. These pipe lines will be taken over by South Pasadena by special arrangement, but will be bought at wholesale from Pasadena to fill them.

KERN FOREGOES COUNTY FAIR

Farmers Deplore Action of City People on Plans

Ku Klux Klan Member Bound Over to Court

Ticket Taker Saves Child From Flames

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 17.—Members of the Kern County Fair Bureau and agriculturalists generally here were heavily disappointed upon learning that business men of the community had decided that a campaign to finance construction of a county fair auditorium is untimely this year, the abandonment of which proposal has caused a suspension of plans for a Kern county fair this autumn. J. J. Deuel, secretary-manager of the fair bureau said today.

Deuel said that the farmers feel that Kern should stage an annual fair representative of its industrial resources and products, and that more or less extensive preparations have been made by producers in the various agricultural communities to place exhibits in the exposition that was planned for this year.

The fair bureau official compares the progress now being made in Fresno county with the plans for the annual fair there, to the situation here, as indicative of the need for an industrial display for educational and advertising purposes.

It was planned here this year to erect a 150,000 exhibit building at the Kern county fair grounds for the annual fair there, to the situation here, as indicative of the need for an industrial display for educational and advertising purposes.

Following a preliminary hearing before Justice A. W. Martin in the Third Township Court, East Bakersfield, Home of the County, on two counts with assaulting Dr. Dwight R. Mason in a Ku Klux Klan raid at Taft, last October, has been ordered by Justice to be held for trial in the Kern county Superior Court.

Dr. Mason was the principal witness for the prosecution at the preliminary proceedings. He identified Cale as a member of the band of thirty masked and robed night-riders, who terrorized him by hanging and flogging him.

Bonds under which Cale is free were continued by the court at $15,000. Dist. Atty. J. B. Dorsey represented the State at the hearing and personally will prosecute the case in Superior Court. The trial will be held in September.

Cale was a witness in the recent trial of John H. Vitale, former Sheriff of the County of the Kern Klan, who was found guilty by a jury and committed to State's Prison for an indeterminate term on charges of carrying a loaded gun on him and threatening him by hanging and flogging him.

The final show of the evening was on when it was discovered that a fire was raging down the street, coming directly toward the theater. The patrons hurriedly left, followed by the employees, who moved to a safe way to watch the flames. When it became apparent that the theater could not be saved, Schooper remembered that children often went to sleep and had to be awakened by others when the show closed.

Hurrying to the building he entered just as the structure burst into flames from the drug store adjoining, and groped his way through row after row of seats, making sure that no human being was to be found. Concluding his search, as well as he could, without light, he was groping through row of seats, making sure that no human being was to be found.

SHIPPING LINES GO ON CARPET

ing between Portland, Me., and other Atlantic ports and Puget Sound and other Pacific ports. Charles E. Ware, president of the N. A. W., stoutly resisted the petition. His company has four all-weather vessels of a total of 32,000 deadweight tons while approximately 100,000 tons of privately owned ships are engaged in the intercoastal business. Mr. Ware maintained that the percentage of government-owned bottoms is too small to be a serious injury to private ships. Moreover, he pointed out that the government already has a net profit of $500,000 on the operation of these vessels. His company's vessels have made fifty westbound trips, carrying a total of 170,000 tons of cargo and earning a gross revenue of $1,488,000 and have made fifty eastbound trips, carrying 331,000 tons of cargo and earning a gross revenue of $1,488,000. The company, he said, now preparing to buy outright another ship from the government.

PROMISE SERVICE
Chairman Leaker of the Shipping Board happened in during the discussion and asked Mr. Martin if the American Steamship Owners' association would live up to Section VII of the Jones Shipping Act, in case the government allocated ships were withdrawn from the trade, and received an affirmative reply. This section of the law provides that government competition shall be withdrawn from routes where private operators maintain permanent regular schedules and call at ports designated by the Shipping Board.

C. J. Beck, representing the American-Hawaiian Line, one of the largest operators in the business, took up the tale here and promised that if the government withdrew the allocated ships, his company would make Portland, Me., a port of call. The only ship now calling at Portland is the N. A. W., otherwise the allocated ships. Mr. Beck elaborated on his argument that the government had taken too much time in the trade, now, but the argument was somewhat weakened a few moments later when the government representative stated that it has just added nine ships on the intercoastal route. Mr. Beck said that within forty days his company would have twenty-four ships on the westbound and fifteen eastbound.

NO BRAKES PROVIDED
The last witness of the day was W. H. Pitkin, counsel for the Williams Steamship Company, who filed an informal protest against the action of the American-Hawaiian Line in withdrawing from the North Atlantic conference and thus producing the present rate war. In the general discussion which followed it developed that the Shipping Board's authority over rates goes only to maximum rates and not to minimum rates. The session ended in the middle of a debate over this interpretation of the law.

President and Receiver Duke of the Atlantic Gulf and Pacific Steamship Company came from Bakersfield today for a further discussion with Vice-President Love about the disposition of the cargo of the ship, the Albatross, at Providence, R. I. However, Mr. Love, because of his preoccupation with the hearings, was unable to go. It is understood that at the office of the Shipping Board that instructions have been issued through the legal department to institute proceedings in the Federal Court to compel Mr. Duke's company to surrender to the board the bill of lading for the cargo of the Albatross and of the other ships involved in order that the board may proceed with the delivery of the cargoes on board.

Laddie Boy is Disgraced; Son Under Arrest
(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Laddie Boy, the first Albatross of the land, has a five-month-old son living in West New York. The offspring of the White House dog got his name on the police blotter today when he was found scuffling with another pup in a vacant lot. He was held for his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coffelt. He ran away from home four days ago. The young Albatross bears the name "Happy Boy" and his distinguished ancestry was made known only after he had been brought home. The Coffelts said they had not advertised their lost dog as the son of President Harding's pet, fearing that if the finder knew that fact, no amount of money would lead him to give up the young canine.

KIDNAPED GIRL IS OBJECT OF SEARCH
CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Held under lock and key, forbidden to write, a 19-year-old Providence (R. I.) girl, is held prisoner in a room somewhere in the vicinity of Lincoln Park and the police and detective agencies today began vigorous canvass of houses in that territory.

Her mother, Mrs. Catherine Gorman, in messages to the police, says her daughter, Rose, was brought to Chicago three months ago by William King, 45 years old, who at the time said that he was forced the girl to go through a marriage ceremony. She says he assumed the name of Clinton King after the flight from Providence. The imprisoned girl managed to slip a letter to the street and it was forwarded to her mother. In this letter the girl said she was guarded every minute. Her captor takes her out occasionally after nightfall, but keeps a pistol against her side, threatening to kill her if she makes an outcry, or appeals to passersby for help. She could not learn the number of the house or the street but knows it is on the edge of Lincoln Park.

The mother fears her daughter's abductor will kill her before the police can locate and rescue her.

ATTEMPTS MADE TO COLLECT LIFE INSURANCE OF AUTO DEALER
(BY A. P. DAY WIRE.)
BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) Aug. 17.—An auto dealer in Birmingham, Ala., was reported drowned in the Coosa River two years ago, has been arrested at Aberdeen, Wash., according to a national detective agency here today.

Albritten was said to have been drowned near Gadsden when his motorcar was accidentally driven into the river. The machine was found in the stream, but the body was never recovered. Attempts were made to collect $100,000 in life insurance on the automobile dealer. The companies refused to settle and suits in varying amounts were filed in the courts. These are now pending.

ABERDEEN (Wash.) Aug. 17.—James Rogers, 44, alias J. O. Ellis, alleged abductor of an amount reported as several thousand dollars in Alabama in 1920, was captured by Federal agents here last evening. After being identified by an Alabama man brought here by the department of justice, he was taken to Tacoma.

REVENUE OFFICER
FIGHTS DISCHARGE FOR CHARGES HE NEVER MADE HIS DEFENSE
(SPECIAL DISPATCH.)
CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Joseph A. Tatso, special agent of the internal revenue service in Chicago, announced last night that he had been summarily dismissed from the government service on the ground that he had been charged with making an untrue charge that U. S. Senator William M. McKinley and his secretary, Chester Wiloughby, were involved in the fraudulent removal of 1800 cases of whisky, valued at $23,000, from the central cold storage warehouse last April. Mr. Tatso denies that he made the charges and denies that he has any charges to bring against the Senator and his secretary. He declares the whole thing is a conspiracy in the Federal building to get him out of the way and maintain that if he were permitted to continue his duties, he might actually obtain evidence that would involve "some of the persons" in a charged with having named.

The story centers around a permit signed by Charles A. Gregory, prohibition officer in charge of the Illinois District, to remove 1800 cases of whisky, given to the Ford Drug and Chemical Company, a fictitious company. It has all the earmarks of a Diamond Dick scarehead, with mysterious agents bobbing up, a gun play, stolen records and secret conferences.

GRAIN WAREHOUSE AND FEED MILL DESTROYED; LOSS IS $20,000
(BY A. P. DAY WIRE.)
BRAWLEY, Aug. 17.—Fire destroyed the grain warehouse and feed mill operated by E. W. Chase, and a shipping shed of the Mission Produce Company adjoining, with a loss of about $20,000 last night. Both buildings were owned by W. F. Beal, former State Assemblyman.

The grain warehouse of the Beal, Guthrie Company, and the Southern Pacific freight depot, adjacent to the destroyed buildings, were saved.

ARMY PLANE FALLS WITH TWO OFFICERS
(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
QUINCY, Aug. 17.—A De Havilland airplane transporting Army officers from the Presidio, San Francisco, to a rest camp at Gold Lake near here, was wrecked today, and making landing on the field near Blairdorn, Mohawk Valley. Lieut. Self, the aviator, and Maj. Brett, his passenger, escaped unhurt.

The rest camp at Gold Lake, just established, is the terminal for airplanes operating daily between the camp, Mather Field, Sacramento, and the Presidio, San Francisco.

JURY'S VERDICT BIG SURPRISE

Finding of Insanity Saves Man from Prison

Court Refuses Injunction After Divorce

Arrest Fresno Woman for Abandoning Children

FRESNO, Aug. 17.—Contradictory to the decision of a jury on the 17th inst., declaring Gust Papitounas sane, another jury late Tuesday brought to a close one of the most sensational trials in Fresno county, declaring him not guilty of murder, because of insanity. Because of the verdict, Judge C. E. Beaumont of the Superior Court has ordered a second alienist examination.

Throughout the trial Papitounas insisted on haranguing the jury, as well as questioning witnesses and taking the stand in his own defense. His testimony and arguments were filled with accusations of graft, theft and other things against lawyers, police officers, members of the District Attorney's office and Sheriff's office.

Papitounas was charged with having attacked Olden Dunsen, a well-known Fresno citizen, and the avowed intention of killing him. He is supposed to have stated later that he would have killed him if it had not been for the fact that he had only $4.50 with which to purchase a revolver and that the gun was no good.

REFUSES INJUNCTION
Judge J. B. Woolley of the Superior Court yesterday morning granted a nolo prosequi decree of divorce to Mrs. Minnie M. Badgley on the default of Robert H. Badgley. Mr. Badgley charged her husband with technical cruelty.

Harry McKee, appearing for Mrs. Badgley, asked the court to grant her an injunction restraining her husband from bothering her after the decree was granted. Judge Woolley refused the injunction on the grounds that the restraint of individuals is a matter for the attention of the District Attorney's office. The court is taking on itself the duties of the police and District Attorney's office.

AFFAIRS AWAY
The State Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of the Industrial Accident Commission awarding Liburn Mankin, aged 5, $4800 for the death of his father, who was employed by the Madera Sugar Pine Company, according to a copy of the decision received here today.

The award was objected to by the lumber company, which asked for review.

INQUEST ORDERED OVER BRAKEMAN
HAYRE GUARD SAYS HE SHOT IN DEFENSE OF HIS PARTNER
(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
HAYRE (Mont.) Aug. 17.—Coroner Holland today ordered an inquest over the body of Robert Stambaugh, a Great Northern Railroad brakeman, declared to have been shot and killed by Harry Stiner, a guard in the Great Northern yards here last night.

According to the account of the shooting given by railroad men today, Stambaugh was returning to the caboose of his freight train to get a rain coat when, as he was completing his run last night, he reported at the yard office and found his place had been taken by Stiner and L. E. Morris, another guard who was with him at the time of the shooting, declared that Stambaugh had been taken when an outgoing train could be caught and then drew a gun and ordered them to "stick up" their hands.

When Morris reacted for Stambaugh's gun, they shot at each other. Stambaugh was shot in the chest and was killed. Stiner started shooting, and was shot by Stiner, who was farther from him. Three bullets entered Stambaugh's breast. Stambaugh was accompanied by Peter Martin, a young machanic, it was stated.

Stiner and Morris are in the custody of the Sheriff. Stambaugh served two years overseas in the World War.

GEN. MITCHELL HOME AFTER LONG FLIGHT
AIR SERVICE OFFICIAL COVERS 5000 MILES ON INSPECTION TOUR
(SPECIAL DISPATCH.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Traveling by airplane approximately 5000 miles, Gen. William Mitchell, assistant chief of air service, returned to this city from an inspection of air service activities in the Middle West, visiting McCook Field, Dayton, O., Springfield Field, Ill., Milwaukee, Chicago and Cleveland.

On his trip between Milwaukee and Culver, Gen. Mitchell encountered wretched weather conditions, being forced to struggle through severe rainstorms and heavy clouds. From Chicago to Springfield he ran into the worst thunderstorm he had ever seen, and was forced to fly for about fifty miles around the edge of the storm. He then turned around and landed at McCook Field, which is at an altitude of 10,000 feet. He accomplished the trip from Springfield Field to Cleveland in one hour and fifteen minutes, flying straight across Lake Erie, in a distance of thirty-five miles, at 10,000 feet altitude.

Lieut. Paul C. Wilkins, Army air service, left Belling Field at 5:45 a.m. today on his flight to inspect the country. His trip westward will be via Dayton, O., Scott Field, Ill., Fort Riley, Kan., North Platte, Neb., Cheyenne, Wyo., Salt Lake City, Elko, Nev., Reno, Nev., and San Francisco.

On his return trip Lieut. Wilkins will take the northern route, traveling along the aerial mail route to Salt Lake and then proceeding northward to Casper and Sharon, Wyo., Miles City, Mont., Bismarck and Fargo, N. D., Minneapolis, Chicago, Dayton, O., and back to Washington.

John L. Sullivan displayed the greatest footwork ever shown by a heavyweight champion. Some will accord this honor to James J. Corbett, who was a marvel on his moccasins.

General conception of Sullivan was of a ponderous, heavy slugger. Sully was only around 185 in his prime and light and springy on his feet. However, footwork was not his specialty. He did most of his execution with his hands. Hence statement that he displayed greatest footwork in history of heavyweight division is likely to arouse discussion. Yet the facts go to him.

Witness, who heaped and heaped, is Tom Hammill, retired veteran locomotive engineer of the desert and mountain country. Tom chattered a locomotive in Arizona, when Tomstone was the liveliest spot on the world's map, and thereby gained his cheerful name. Mr. Hammill was an eyewitness of a bar-room brawl in Tombstone when seven men were killed in seven seconds. He was an eyewitness, not because he wanted to be, but because he couldn't get away from that place fast enough. Even Paddock couldn't have done it. No man ever has done 100 yards in seven seconds, and 100 yards was too short under circumstances.

It was in these playful days, long ago, that Sullivan played a one-night stand in Tombstone. This was during one of his theatrical tours. Sully naturally was the idol of that place. But he wasn't feeling convivial or sociable, and after his appearance at the town opera hall went direct to his room in the hotel. This displeased the miners and others, who were feeling friendly. So they called at his hotel in a body and invited him to the leading saloon, accompanying their remarks with a few volleys through the roof. Mr. Sullivan dressed and responded to this enthusiastic invitation. Entering the bar, he was requested to dance. He hesitated, but, after thinking it over briefly, decided to dance. He danced with unusual alacrity and at some length to the accompaniment of barking six-shooters and flying floor splinters. In those days the cowboys could shoot their initials in your corns without seriously injuring you.

"Don't let anybody intimate that any heavyweight had better footwork than Sully displayed that night," says Mr. Hammill.

Absence of Twin Six Stata from the Chicago line-up was not regarded at the time as weakening the Cubs greatly. They didn't exactly slump; in fact, went along playing about fifty-fifty baseball, and attracted no great amount of attention to themselves. In short, they were quite generally regarded as being about settled for the season.

More recently, and particularly since the return of Stata, they have been traveling at a fast clip, even to the extent of starting considerable pennant prattle among the citizens of the Cub precinct. There remains hardly a vestige of the championship team which Wrigley money made it possible to assemble around Alexander and Killefer in 1918. That club fell into decay, new blood was infused and one of the most rapid cases of rehabilitation in baseball history appears to have been accomplished. The Cubs may not win the flag this year, but they appear to be a championship club in the making. Most of this improvement has taken place since last spring. All of it, however, can hardly be mechanical, but in a measure due to an unusual degree of harmony, which results in hustle and club spirit.

Stata, while here recovering from his broken hand, told me all newspaper reports regarding his poor fielding early this season were according to the true facts.

Last season, on the Coast, Stata dropped only one fly ball. By the end of the first month this year he had muffed two. Meantime, he was hitting above expectations. All of which sounded strange to local fans, who could visualize him only as one of the best fielders in the business, but who might be baffled by major-league twirling.

Stata told me that the sky bothered him for the first six weeks, and particularly sun fields, which explained his lapses on fly balls. In the National League there are a number of fierce sun fields, and some of the outfielders find it necessary to wear smoked blinders. Stata had nothing of this sort to contend with on the Coast. In fact, there is hardly a shadow in the P. C. L. Left field at Washington Park is so called, but little inconvenience there except in a very slow game when the sun is fairly well down.

WATER AND POWER ACT DENOUNCED AS MENACE

Emphatic Denunciation of Proposed Measure Issued by Chamber of Commerce Here

Emphatic denunciation of the proposed Water and Power Act was contained in a statement issued by the Chamber of Commerce yesterday following action which put that organization flatly on record as opposed to the measure. After months of investigation, during which both sides of the question were carefully gone into by both the legislative and power committees of the chamber, reports were submitted to the board of directors recommending that the act be opposed.

SEEK GIRL VIOLINIST IN DIVES

Parents Fear for Safety of Pasadena Musician Missing Since Sunday

Orville Wilson, talented musician of Pasadena, is missing from his home at 31 South Daisy avenue, Pasadena, according to a report made by his father, O. H. Wilson, at the Police Bureau yesterday.

Worried by the thought that his daughter was perhaps kidnapped by desperate characters who may be making capital of the girl's musical talents, Mr. Wilson appealed to the police to aid him in his search for her. Mr. Wilson stated, according to the police, that he believed this girl, daughter of his, was being held by her captors in some cheap amusement house in the east-side quarter.

The girl, the father declared, disappeared last Thursday evening from a Pasadena church in which she was to have played a violin solo. Mr. Wilson said he accompanied his daughter to the church and that she left her in the vestry. That was the last seen of her, he said. Miss Wilson, who is 16 years old, is described by her father as being five feet seven inches in height, weight 115 pounds, having gray eyes, light brown hair and fair complexion.

Her father described her as being a violinist of great talent, and that she had been playing since she was five years old. He said she was a very bright girl, and that she had been attending the Pasadena High School.

Identification of Horse Keeps Man in Prison

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent (SPECIAL REPORT.)

LONG BEACH, Aug. 17.—Identification by Mrs. T. G. Osborne of 1918 East Broadway, this city, of a pair of stockings found by police on Leonard H. Martin, served to hold that youth today to answer to the grand jury on a charge of burglary. Martin, who was captured by Detective Kane and Richardson on the night of July 15, after Detective Kane had shot the fleeing youth in the back, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Brayton on a burglary charge this afternoon.

The stockings, found in Martin's pockets, had been stolen from a pair of stockings found by police on Leonard H. ## ARE YOU AGAINST MACHINE POLITICS? AID MOORE FOR SENATOR; HE HAS NO "SACK"

Charles C. Moore, Republican candidate for United States Senator, is campaigning for public office just as he has pursued his career as a successful engineer, just as he has entered upon all projects for public service—wholeheartedly, energetically, unselfishly, and independent of any alliance or combination.

Representing California Republicans who desire a constructive, capable, fearless and unprejudiced Californian in the United States Senate, Mr. Moore is seeking support as a Republican on a Republican platform that pledges his intelligent and undivided allegiance to a national Republican administration.

Having no special interest to serve, with no private ambition to satisfy, no political machine to reward, his campaign is being financed by the voluntary contributions of Republicans whose cause he has made his own. Being thus free of obligations to organizations or individuals, his candidacy has not attracted those who are customarily depended upon for large campaign contributions.

As the campaign nears conclusion the expense connected with mailing important literature, paying for clerical assistance and other necessary activities is increasing. Hoping to prevent a diminution of effort at this final stage, Maj. O. C. Wyman, manager in Southern California of the Moore-for-Senator Club, has issued the following appeal for contributions to the Republican cause:

"If you endorse the platform and policies of Charles C. Moore please fill out and return the blank below, accompanying it by your check or cash contribution.

TO MOORE-FOR-SENATOR HEADQUARTERS, "Lew's" State Building, "Los Angeles, Cal.

"Being a supporter of Charles C. Moore for United States Senator and desiring to do my share in assisting in the election of a REAL REPUBLICAN to represent this State at Washington, I herewith contribute $..... to the MOORE-FOR-SENATOR campaign and enroll myself as a member of the MOORE-FOR-SENATOR CLUB.

One of the class is a florist from Arizona, who intends to follow this vocation in connection with her regular business. Many of Miss McGough's former pupils are making artificial flowers at home and selling them.

The Polytechnic High School is probably the largest night school in the country and it is believed to be the only school in the country having a teacher to teach exclusively the making of artificial flowers.

MILLIONS FOR SCHOOLS

Elaborate Program of Construction for Education Ordered by Los Angeles Board

Plans and specifications for more than three and a half million dollars' worth of new school buildings were ordered prepared by the Board of Education yesterday when architects were employed to start work on the building program made possible by the $17,400,000 bond issue voted last June.

The list of schools for which plans are to be prepared includes seven high schools—inclusive of additions to present ones—two junior high schools and eighteen elementary schools.

The total appropriation for high schools is $1,775,000, including the new high school for the Hollywood district to be erected on the southeast corner of Melrose and Fairfax avenues. This school will cost $800,000 and will occupy a twenty-eight-acre tract. The architects are John and Donald Parkinson. A name for this school has not yet been selected. Fairfax, Melrose and Wilshire have been suggested.

McUTCHEON IN "THE TIMES"

Work of Famous Cartoonist to Appear Daily in This Journal

On the editorial page of this issue of The Times appears the first of a series of cartoons by John T. McCutcheon, the world's greatest exponent of this branch of newspaper art. His cartoons will hereafter appear daily in The Times.

This notable addition to The Times features is made possible through a special arrangement with the Chicago Tribune, owners of the McCutcheon copyright. Newspaper readers need no introduction to the work of Mr. McCutcheon, who is probably the highest-paid newspaper cartoonist in America. For genuine insight into the world's affairs and human nature, for humor, pathos and for artistic technique, McCutcheon is in a class by himself.

BATTLE ON AS WILSON IS ACCUSED

Attorneys for Slain Man Try to Dissolve All Ideas of Suicide

Defense and State attorneys, trying the case of Herbert Wilson, charged with the murder of Herbert Cox in a frustrated jail break, battled yesterday in Judge J. Perry W. Corcoran's court.

Defense counsel attempted to prove Cox was the victim of his own bullet, self-inflicted. The State attorneys charged that Wilson killed his jailmate, when he learned the latter had squealed to officers of the contemplated jail delivery.

JURORS HEAR PLAN OF RAID

Klansmen's Lawyers Fail to "Bar" Story

First Defense Witnesses Expected Today

Surprises Promised by Attorney D'Orr

The defense in the trial of the thirty-six men who are charged with the responsibility for the Ingwood raid, plans to stage a ten battle in Department Twelve today by moving at the close of the state case for the dismissal of the defendants not actually connected by testimony of prosecution witnesses with the asserted unlawful "enterprise."

This became evident from the objections made by Paul Barksdale D'Orr, chief counsel for thirty-five of the defendants, and by Attorney John T. Mulligan and George C. Watson, for Capt. W. A. Coburn, depicting the raid as the Ku Klux Klan on the Pacific Coast, and was partly verified by statements made by them after adjournment. That Coburn and G. W. Price, King Klansman of the Klan in California, will be among these men was assured by the statements in court of Attorney Mulligan. A council of war of all his clients was held in the office of Mr. D'Orr last night and plans for the opening of their battle for freedom in Judge House's court today, were made by the gathering.

SURPRISES PROMISED

"There will be several defense surprises," was the only comment Mr. D'Orr chose to make on the situation. He did not deny, however, that the defense will take the position that although the names of some of the defendants appear on the list submitted by Mr. D'Orr to the grand jury and the District Attorney as persons who participated in the Ingwood raid, the prosecution will have to show each and every man's particular part in the raid before they must be required to put up any defense. Attorneys Mulligan and Watson are expected to take the same view. The names of Capt. Coburn and Mr. Price did not appear on the list of participants. Both have denied several times that they had any part in the affair.

The defense began the shaping of its plans as the prosecution moved toward the final phase of its case against the defendants and introduced evidence consisting in a large measure, of statements made by the defendants. The defense for the grand jury and to county authorities following the raid. A spirited clash, marked by impassioned testimony from Mr. D'Orr, prevented the introduction into evidence of the much-discussed "statement" prepared before the raid for the use of newspapers, was lost by the defense, and the jury was given an opportunity to view the raid as the leaders of the enterprise, said by the State to have prepared the statement, saw it.

STATEMENT READ

This is the statement taken out of the safe at the office of Capt. Coburn, head of the Klan, at the time of the raid. The raid, the objections by the attorneys for the defense brought the ruling from Judge House that the statement cannot be held admissible against Coburn or Price, until such time as the defense can show they were connected with the raid itself.

The statement, which was headed "Citizens of Ingwood, Take Law Into Their Own Hands," was written on a typewriter in the Ku Klux Klan headquarters in Los Angeles, and dated some months before Mr. Price, according to the statement, saw it.

New Frocks

Fashion, deserting her winsome short-skirted ways, has all at once "grown up." Long lines that fall in graceful draperies give her dignity and slenderness. Becoming shades she wears in the softest of silks, set off, perhaps, with a touch of color. No sleeves at all vie with long, flowing ones that in themselves are the better part of a gown. Versatile, intriguing, are the new Frocks that Fashion wears for fall.

Suits

Box coats with large, full sleeves strapped in to make them small at the wrist; low bloused coats after the Russian peasant style, and straight-line, severely plain coats that always so well suit a certain type of woman. In her choice of Suits, Fashion is quite as versatile as with Frocks.

Coats

Some of the features that stand out as distinctly different from those that Fashion favored last year are: The Russian blouse effect, the straight-line beltless styles, elaborate and ingenious sleeves fitting tightly at the shoulder and flaring out in any number of unexpected ways at the elbow or wrist, the gorgeous linings.

Evening Gown (illustrated) is of heliotrope satin de soie, with metallic flowers at the dropped waistline.

THE HOPI TO HOP
 The Hopi Indians are to have their snake dance about the 30th of the month and it is likely that a flock of spectators will find a way to the ceremonies. In a bone-dry country a snake dance may be listed as an oasis in the painted desert.

PARK PERILS
 When folks can drown in the city parks on a Sunday afternoon, with hundreds of spectators looking on, it would seem that the world crop of life-savers was running shy. Either that, or else the parks ought to be strained.

A GREEN WORLD
 The province of British Columbia is said to be setting out new trees at the rate of upwards of 5,000,000 a year. The government supplies whole communities with street trees and encourages park and reforestation projects. If a tree could be planted somewhere for every one killed before it is too late, what a fine thing it would be if the California boulevards were lined with shade trees for their full length.

SAVE FOR BEAUTY
 There are plenty of locations for business uses without the invasion of a single foot of the Wilshire Boulevard frontage. If that is to be made a 200-foot highway of beauty and substance from Westlake Park to the Santa Monica palisades it must be kept absolutely free from the material evidences of commerce and industry. It must not be exploited for business. Mercury may come up to look, but he must not touch that peerless passageway from the city to the sea. Save Wilshire for Apollo.

AMONG THE TRAMPS
 The hobbo college, established by James Eads How, the millionaire tramp, is said to have closed its doors for lack of student material. The men who composed its timber are all going to work for the railroads. They are taking the place of strikers. There were a lot of jobless men in the country. These are taking the place of strikers as far as they can and the strikers are now the idle class. If they are finally able to get their places back that will be another turn of the wheel. But in the meantime there are few who admit classification as tramps.

THE MOUTH WATERS
 If one has a high-priced motor car in Japan it is said that the license and tax will run well toward $1000 a year. Doesn't this open up a sweet vista of golden possibilities to the Stephens spendthrifts? They are now dreaming of a special tax on gasoline and an increase on motor licenses. If they only had a rake-off of $1000 for each car, what a lovely time would be had by the office-holding bunch. The fees amount to $5,000,000 a year now, but imagine $50,000,000 cars paying $1000 apiece into the State treasury! The administration could use steam shovels to scuttle the vaults. The very thought is enough to almost make the board of control lose control of itself.

THE BIG LID
 Advice from Paris promises an invasion of massive millinery. The broad-brimmed hat is no longer in some cases the lid is no less than three feet in diameter. This is another Paris idea that will not make much headway here. Paris is unable to force American girls into long skirts and the French designers cannot influence Hollywood dames on behalf of the car-wheel hat. The spread-eagle lid is all right for a garden party, but for the ordinary feverish mixing of humans it has no place. The natty little sport hat and the short skirt are too blooming cozy and comfortable to be wiped out by any edict from Paris. When the ladies wear lids with the diameter of a tent they cannot get close enough together to exchange scandal.

THE INSANITY PLEA
 Experts agree that court practice should be remedied in relation to the use of the insanity plea as a defense in murder trials. The opinion prevails that the crime and its connection with the defendant should first be proven—regardless of the mental condition of the prisoner. Then if insanity be alleged a trio or commission of experts should make a thorough test and determine the fate and responsibility of the defendant. This would appear reasonable, and yet there is a feeling that the method would result in the larger use of the insanity plea than prevails today. It doesn't seem to be any trouble at all for a group of experts to find a man insane if he votes the Democratic ticket or wears his collar button upside down. If he is variant from the normal man the medical sharp is ready to set him down as being as crazy as a bedbug. The lawyers have found the experts exceedingly tractable in the matter of freeing men from responsibility because of their mental condition. If morons and mental derelicts could be legally put out of the way it would have a more impressive effect upon the use of the insanity plea. At that, there would be sincere objection to leaving the decision to the so-called experts.

A SENATOR WITH BACKBONE

It is a sad confession to make, but it is nevertheless true, that in Congress today we have all too few men of the caliber and backbone of Henry Lee Myers, Senator from Montana.

In 1920 the Nonpartisan League in Montana captured the Democratic State machine. Myers is a Democrat, but not a chameleon. He promptly denounced the Democratic nominees whom he knew to be Socialists, union-labor men and Nonpartisan Leaguers in disguise. He did more than this. He stumped the State of Montana in the interest of the Republican candidate—because he placed country before party—and so saved Montana from the fate of North Dakota.

Like a modern Coriolanus he paid the penalty. He offended the radicals, the union-labor element and the partisan Democrats and they banded together to knife him.

This would entail facing a campaign of misrepresentation and abuse and vilification if he wished to continue in public life. He refused.

Senator Myers will be remembered, however, by all stalwart upholders of straight Americanism for his courageous denunciation of the Illinois labor murders in the Senate chambers, in reply to Borah's veiled apology for the perpetrators of these outrageous crimes. Myers' reply was indeed a new charter of American independence.

"There is no free America, there never will be any free America until an American citizen or an American resident who wants to work and earn an honest living can seek and obtain honest work and perform that work in peace, without getting the consent of an invisible government, a self-constituted, superior power, superior to human rights, superior to the government."

"There can be no free America until an American citizen can work at his calling or his trade without first having to get the consent of an organized minority, a power which is more tyrannical and more domineering than anything else that has ever existed in this country."

Without having to get the consent to work of anybody or any organization other than himself and his employer. That is what free American government should mean.

"Too many hundreds of thousands of our humblest but most deserving citizens the inestimable right to work when and where and for whom they please is denied, so long as that may be the case this will not be free America, 'the land of liberty.' When such awful things as the horrible crime of which I have been talking can happen it is not free America."

"These lawless acts were the result of the dominance of an organized minority, and I say that the domination of an organized minority is the greatest menace of the American people today."

It was not only the tyranny of the labor unions that Senator Myers assailed in Congress. He was just as outspoken against all the cliques and blocs and lobbies that unfortunately can make and unmake our national legislators.

"I do not confine my remarks," said the Senator from Montana, "to the organized minority of which I started out to speak. I have heard it stated by those who have made a study of the subject that 70 per cent of American legislation enacted by Congress or by State legislatures is enacted at the behest of organized minorities, and I do not doubt it."

Senator Myers' remedy—also administered in open debate for the Senate to digest—was frank and uncompromising.

"Backbone in public men! That is the only effective remedy of which I know. I do not think there is much of it in public life today, but I hope there may be more in the future."

That hope will be echoed in many an American heart today when such outspoken and honest support of our tried and trustworthy American standards can render impossible the election to the Senate of the brave orator that uttered them.

More backbone in public men! Want of this threatens the stability, even the very life, of our government. Unless crimes like the Herrin massacre are taken up by the national authorities and the perpetrators brought to the bar of justice this country will go on inevitably to disaster and disintegration.

More backbone in public men! In '76 there was enough backbone in America to throw off the British rule of King Los. In there in '23 the necessary backbone to overthrow the rule of King Stork? Or are we, like the frogs in the tale, willing to submit to the newly set-up tyrant until we have all been devoured?

LOVERS' CO-OPERATIVE UNION
 There's many a true word said in jest; and many a movement, started in jest, that ends in dead earnest; and "the might-have-been" is never so serious as the "hadn't-ought-to-be."

These philosophical contemplative remarks are suggested by the uncanny success, never expected, of a sociological experiment undertaken by two jaded individuals to relieve the tedium of existence. From the hash-wary stomach of an actor and the bunk-asted brain of an editor sprang a half-humorous scheme that has proved a revelation on the extraordinary change in sentiment that has taken place in the last few years. Incidentally it has involved the two foremost humorous geniuses in a project of embarrassing proportions.

Both were tired of hotel and restaurant living and both yearned for home life. Their great idea was to introduce the co-operative principle in the selection of mates by human beings.

Now the choice of a mate has in the past been the most individualistic of all human operations. It was the one thing in life all men and women insisted on doing for themselves.

Wherefore matrimonial agencies have not enjoyed a very extensive clientele. But "The Lovers' Co-operative Union" was to be something different. It was designed to peddle hearts through a catalogue and deal in them as a Chinaman sells lottery tickets. No correspondence, no exchange of pictures, no anything distinctive. The names were to be shaken up in a hat and the selection of the mated couples left entirely to chance.

From the start it was a harrowing success. In a short time over 3000 names were booked of maids, bachelors, widows and widowers anxious to try their matrimonial luck by the hazard of the lottery.

And when you look into this matter it isn't anything to laugh at. Chiefly the existence of a number of things that "hadn't ought to be."

Three thousand individuals over a restricted area in a brief period anxious for companionship on such dubious terms. Surely there must be a terrible amount of uncharted loneliness abroad to bring all these names to the surface.

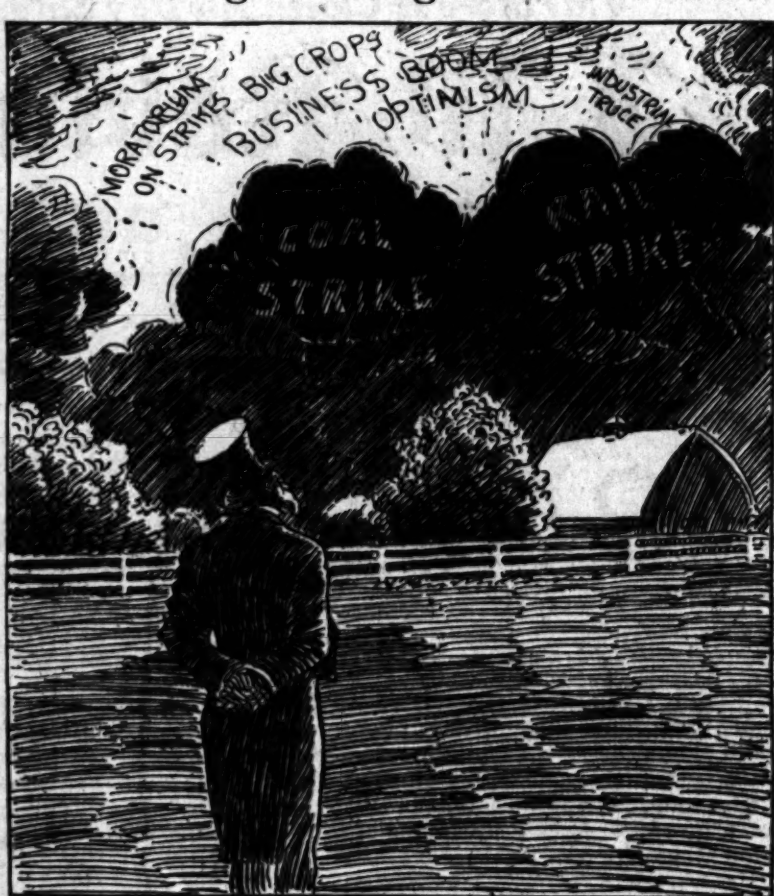

Or there must be a dulling of the old true love sentiment that was once the foundation of the American home.

Or there must be a dreadful loss of individuality among large numbers of people, so that they no longer care to take the initiative, even in their most personal affairs, but prefer to leave themselves in the hands of others.

Or there must be many unredemmed who hope to find a means for defeating the marriage laws in what appears (and was) a bona fide attempt to mate the unmated by the legal tie.

Any way you look at the success of this mad scheme there is little to bring satisfaction to the soul of the optimist.

HISTORY AND HAWAII
 Hawaii is to have her history written. This is no easy job, as the islands are almost without archives or records. The natives had no written language and the stories of their kings came by word of mouth from generation to generation. The first book the Hawaiians knew as their own was a spell book compiled by pioneer missionaries just 100 years ago. The written or printed word is still strange to most of the natives. The history of the islands will therefore be confined largely to the contact with white races.

There is a fairly well authenticated story that the islands were discovered as far back as 1555, when two of the ships of the Spanish explorer, Alvaro de Saavedra, were wrecked and the captain of one of them, with his sister, survived and intermarried with natives. There are traces of Spanish customs in the islands and there are charts indicating their latitude and longitude dating back to 1657. Nevertheless the real history of the group begins with their rediscovery by the great English navigator, Capt. James Cook, who named the islands after one of his patrons, the Earl of Sandwich. This was in 1778.

Since that time the islands have been fairly well identified with the rest of the world. The natives were supposed to be a musical people and it was in the form of a chant that their legends were handed down. A certain strain of alliteration was followed, but there was neither rhyme nor rhythm and the so-called Hawaiian music of today is a compilation of other fates. Penning a history of the Hawaiian Islands is like stringing a lot of varicolored beads on a thread. The natives who worshipped the bones of Capt. Cook are not the ones who played the ukulele.

THE DANGER SIGNAL
 The judge of the Juvenile Court in one of the large cities declares that delinquency among girls is on the increase. In his own court there has been an increase of more than 25 per cent in the last two years and it has been beyond the natural growth of the community. He feels that the jazy life they lead and the frivolity of the modern mother divide much of the responsibility. The judge complains that the girls are too independent. They do as they please and there is a complete absence of parental control. He says that young girls will come into his court and lie like princes. Likewise there are many who are plainly proud of their adventures and look pityingly on their less-sophisticated sisters. According to the judge the girls are wild and glad of it. He doesn't consider it a good sign and he insists that parents should be held responsible for the behavior of their young. It would take some time to adjust society to that plane and there would be a lot of uncomfortable and embarrassed mothers. Parents are inclined to let their young get away from them in the rosy belief that they will come back to them white and unsmirched. But the first thing they know somebody is telephoning from the Police Court wanting them to come down and furnish bail. The bright lights have singed their offspring.

SOURCES OF POWER
 Fifty years from now—or maybe a hundred—chest of a coal strike will be received with shouts of laughter. It will be considered about the same as if the grasshoppers would threaten to quit kicking. We are going to get light, heat or power from so many different sources that coal will be as inconsequential as mud. Some of the old-timers used to talk about the importance of conserving our coal supply. They figured that in 1374 years our coal fields would be exhausted and the last survivor of the human race would slowly freeze to death as the final glow of the last lamp expired.

But presently we will care as little for coal as we do for last year's snow. The next generation will tap the internal forces of the earth for their heat and there will be power from so many sources that men may pick and choose as they do now at the necktie counter.

As radioactivity ceases to be a fad or a curio it will become a trained servant. Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, the electrical wizard, who has forged thunderbolts that would overwhelm the Olympian Jove, announces that the principle of transforming and transmitting power from ether is not only plausible, but demonstrable. The power is there. Every experiment proves that. Its practical application merely depends upon the discovery of the wave length that is economically feasible. Power is being regularly transmitted as it is. The message received by radio has been carried from the sending to the receiving station by the force of the electromagnetic wave. This power represents hundreds—possibly thousands—of kilowatts, but it is so scattered and diverted that only a minute fraction is used or obtained. Concentrate or control these forces and there is power almost beyond limit.

Seems absurdly simple, doesn't it? Well, somebody will be doing it some day.

According to Dr. Steinmetz the problem of power transmission differs from wireless communication in that the greater part of the power sent out from the generating station must arrive at the receiving station in order to make it economical. The radio waves must be directed so closely that their power is coherent and connected. Light is an electromagnetic wave, differing from the radio merely by having a wave length many thousands of times shorter. While light scatters in all directions like the wireless wave, it can be confined and concentrated in the searchlight. But there is the inevitable scattering of the searchlight beam. At a distance of 100 miles the rays may expand over a surface of sixteen square miles. Were radio handled on like terms it would take an enormous receiving station to pick up the power.

Still more practical for power transmission would be the use of resonant vibrations of standing waves. In a huge sending station capable of broadcasting waves of 1,000,000 kilowatts or more a wave length would be found wherein the absorption in space would be practically negligible. Then a station tuned to the same wave length as the sending post would resonate with the regular wave issuing from the sending station, thereby stopping its passage and absorbing its energy. It would be like punching a hole in the standard wave sheet with the power flowing through the opening. The sending station would be drawn on the sheet and this power would reach the receiving station. That would be the real thing. Any receiving station of suitable design might then be able to pick up power from the universal supply represented by the wave sheet which should cover the earth.

We could develop a sending station in the Sierras that could make this old world spin.

Try this on your phonograph.

TOO MANY CROOKS
 There are thirty measures to be voted on at the election in November. These range all the way from the soldiers' bonus to single tax and from enforcing prohibition to denying vivisection. It is a bit difficult for a young and tender voter to realize the responsibilities under which he staggers when he enters the election booth. Some of the voters will shirk these responsibilities by shooting the whole mess into the waste basket. At that, they will be doing as well as might be expected.

THE FIGHT FOR LIFE

BY CHARLES LINCOLN EDWARDS, Ph.D.
 Director of Nature Study, Los Angeles City Schools

Long ago, when the great ice sheet gradually covered Europe, plants unable to endure the cold went ahead into the more southern countries. Some plants survived on the edge of the ice and snow. As the ice sheet melted and retreated northward the snow plants died out, except near the ice. Today snow-loving plants are found in the high Alps many ages after the ice sheet melted in the valleys and on the plains. The relatives of these same Alpine plants are now found only in the Arctic regions, having died out in all the warmer countries between.

The struggle of plants for existence during the great glacier period is being repeated always, everywhere, by all plants and animals. One of the wonders of life is the manner in which plants and animals are equipped by nature to fight against adverse conditions.

If all the seeds, or baby plants, should fall upon the ground directly beneath the branches of their mother plant most would be killed by crowding, lack of sunlight and starvation. So nature has provided means whereby the seeds are transported away from the mother plant and scattered so that each new plant may have a place of its own in which to make its fight for life.

Some seed pods, like those of touch-me-nots, suddenly coil up with an elastic snap and hurl the seeds to some distance. A maple seed has a broad membrane, or parachute, which supports the baby while coasting toward the earth. The offspring of the dandelion are provided with delicately tufted airplanes for their top as they go into new regions. The stem of the ripe, rounded tumbleweed breaks off close to the ground and the dry, light plant is whirled across the fields by every breeze, scattering its seeds broadcast.

Birds eat bright berries and, flying from place to place, distribute the hard seeds which have passed through their intestines without being digested. Darwin found that eighty-two seeds found in the droppings from the feet of one partridge germinated. Thus water birds, pigeons, cranes and many other species may carry plants even to distant countries.

Squirrels and woodpeckers, while gathering nuts for winter storage, often drop them where, later, the seeds will hatch and grow. Some fruits, like those of the burdock and cocklebur, are provided with hooks which catch hold of the clothing of passing people or the hair of various animals and thus give their possessors a free ride to a new home site.

The water lily fruit floats some times a long way from the parent stem before setting free its next generation.

BLOOD AND SAND

BY DOROTHEA MOORE
 Sangre y Arena—Beauty and pity and terror. A story where everything is forgotten save these three.

Aspects of great beauty must leave the heart grateful and humble. Grateful to have been permitted the sight of beauty and humble before its power. The audience sitting breathless before the film of "Blood and Sand" feel this, though they may not be able to define it. For sheer beauty is its best possession and more than its drama.

It takes hold of one fiercely at the first glimpse of the gay charm of the dark, flashing faces—with the high lights of white teeth and brilliant eyes and with the subtlety of the planes of the soft, brown cheeks. It glows in them all, even to the smallest child. So that for a long, vivid hour one lives again in Spain. Spain, so proud of her civilization—so isolated in her culture—so glorious in her architecture—so unfortunate in her civic ideals—still so lovely and so meditative.

Many so-called famous novels have been submitted to hopeless vulgarizations that one rejoices to find here the story allowed to unfold itself as its author wrote it—at least in all major particulars—with its spirit, its atmosphere, its greatness, its cruelty, its pride—and its tragically logical ending.

What happy ending, forsooth, could there be for a man broken in body by wounds and in spirit by remorse and defeated passion? In recalling the picture with keen appreciation for the ability shown in the choice of its casting and its atmosphere of pure foreign charm one rather ignores names—it is an carrier of emotion that it thinks of them—these artists of the screen.

One thinks of the youthful beauty of the hero and the nobility of his suffering—the restraint of his passion. Of the dark somberness of the childless wife—and her unforgiveness. Of the varying albed of the almost impossibly hardened siren of the great world, with her face now like some cameo—serene and intelligent—then like a madwoman of Loire and then again just a modern modish temptress.

Very near to great drama is the final scene. The chapel where the torere lies dying in its shadows—outside the blazing, indifferent crowd, turning to a newer hero and a fresher victim.

The higher criticism has refused to Blasco Ibanez the first place in the literature of Spain and perhaps with justice. In these days of demanded realism his characters seem too wildly fantastic for the colors of truth. But no one better creates the atmosphere in which such people might justly move, and no one gives the reader more of the emotion—what we call quite meaningfully—the psychology of his country—a country so like this of California, with its bare, brown mountains, its staid olives, its waterless plains and whose passionate history makes ours as yet a mere ephemera.

IT WAS THE MOSQUITOES
 A certain theatrical company, after a dreary and unsuccessful tour, finally arrived in a small New Jersey town. That night, though there was no general uprising of the audience, there was enough hand clapping to arouse the dejected spirits of the actors. The leading man stepped to the footlights after the first act and bowed profoundly. Still the clapping continued. When he went behind the scenes he saw an Irish stage hand laughing heartily.

"Well, what do you think of that?" asked the actor, throwing out his chest.

"What d'ye mane?"

"Why, the hand clapping out there."

"D'ye call that applause? Why, that's the audience killin' mosquitoes."—[Argonaut.]

HISTORY MADE EASY
 The history was recited dinner and the conversation turned to school lessons, much to the consternation and disgust of little Cynthia.

"What period in English history are you doing?" asked her father.

"The Stuarts," said Cynthia curtly.

There was a long pause as father thought out a question to put to his daughter. He was a little hazy about facts, but at last he propounded his poser.

"What was the first thing James I did when he came to the throne?" asked father solemnly.

"Sat on it, I suppose," replied Cynthia, with calm conviction.—[London Answers.]

BEAT HIM TO IT

A veterinary surgeon was instructing a farmer as to a suitable method for administering medicine to a horse.

"Simply place this powder in a gas pipe about two feet long, put one end of the pipe well back in the horse's mouth and blow the powder down his throat."

Shortly thereafter the farmer came running into the veterinary's office in a very distressed condition.

"What's the matter?" asked the veterinary.

"I'm dying," cried the farmer. "The horse blew first!"—[Exchange.]

IMPRESSING HIS AUDIENCE

The street hawk was selling neckties at the public library while his coppers watched for the sign of a bluecoat. He had to work fast.

"This here necktie is shot," he makes a gent look dressable and you'd pay three bucks for it at any mawdset's. I bring these over from Paris myself. The King of Paris wore one exactly like this at the grand ball given at the Bois de Boulogne."

A capper stepped up and bought one. "Ah!" said the hawk, "Mr. Pierpont Morgan takes this one."—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

Put Only Wolves on Guard

A bronze tablet commemorating the daring feat of Israel Putnam at the famous wolf den in Windham county, Connecticut, has been stolen and the authorities in the Land of Steady Habits fear that some dark night the thieves may come and get away with the den itself.—[New York Herald.]

LOOKING FOR JOB, ROBBER'S EXCUSE

JURY GIVES LITTLE CREDENCE TO TALE AND CONVICTS DOMINGUEZ

Although a youth giving the name of Frank Dominguez tried to prove yesterday in Judge Vicini's court that he and three others had ridden in a taxicab to the Chatter-ton bakery at Sixteenth and Burlington streets to get jobs, a jury found him guilty of robbery.

The defendant asserted he was not at the place when the robbery occurred, while his two companions, now serving terms in San Quentin, testified that the defendant went there with them, but did not take part in the offense. The case was prosecuted by Dep. Dist. Atty. Powell. The defendant will appear on Saturday for sentence.

DECLARE ACT IS DANGEROUS

November 7 election," said Herbert L. Cornish, chairman of the People's Economy League, the Los Angeles business men's organization that has been formed to fight the constitutional amendment.

We regard the action taken by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce as most important. It expresses the opinion of our successful business men, the men who have kept California the one white spot on the industrial map. It will impress upon our citizens the fact that this act is a real menace to the financial and industrial safety of California.

SALVATION ARMY CAMP IS CROWDED ALWAYS

LIMIT OF OCCUPANTS HAVE WEEK OF REST AND PLAY AT REDONDO BEACH

The Salvation Army's summer camp at Redondo Beach yesterday was again dedicated to recreation for the women and children of the poor.

The past three weeks the camp was devoted to correcting the stunted growth of babies born into families where food is a precious thing.

One hundred and twenty occupants of the camp are enjoying the salt air of the sea and the sight of the foaming breakers as they bathe at the beach.

Next Tuesday another group of 140 will be taken by the Salvation Army to Redondo out of the crowded city.

LAND OFFICE MEN SPEND BUSY DAY

GET ROYALTIES FOR OIL ON LEASED TERRITORY IN DISTRICT

Register Valentine and Receiver Smith of the local Land Office piled up a big record yesterday. There were eighteen separate transactions during the day. The receipts of the office were $4000; eight homestead entries were filed, two final certificates were allowed, with a half dozen desert land entries made. The most of the receipts were on account of royalties for oil pumped on leased territory in various parts of the local Land Office district.

YOUTH IS HELD ON MANN ACT CHARGE

WOMAN ADMITS TURNING OVER "RED LIGHT" EARNINGS

Conrad Duran, 19 years old, was bound over to the Federal court yesterday by Commissioner Long on the charge of violating the Mann Act in having taken Margaret Jones from this city to Juarez, Mex., for an immoral purpose last May. The prosecuting witness is a married woman with a child, but she does not live with her husband, it is said. Duran is said to have made her acquaintance at a local dance hall.

The Jones woman admitted that she had lived in the "red-light" district in Juarez, and that she turned over a portion of her earnings as a prostitute to Duran.

CHICKENS POISONED, OWNER STARTS SUIT

David Isen owned chickens and ducks and kept them in his back yard. He had a large number. Now he hasn't so many. He says poison was thrown into his back yard and 400 chickens and ducks passed away.

Yesterday he sued Aldo and Mary C. Mosier, asking $5000 damages, asserting that at divers times between April 15 and June 1, fast, poison was thrown into his yard and eaten by his chickens and ducks. The reasonable value of the chickens and ducks is $800. The $5000 is for damages. The complaint states that the purported act was committed with malicious intent.

CAMPAIGN LIKE SNOWBALL

Rolling Faster Toward Finish; Growing Larger With Votes; Gathering New Subscriptions Fascinating

With candidates from practically every district running neck and neck in the race to win the $500 prize in The Times $70,000 prize campaign, and enthusiasm growing by leaps and bounds, the remaining days of the last $30 club and gold offer promise to make it even more difficult to risk the hardest prediction as to the probable winners when the big campaign ends September 2.

Two dates loom importantly on the campaign calendar—August 26, the close of the last $30 club offer, and September 2, the day of days when the distribution of $70,000 in valuable prizes will be finally decided.

It is by means of the last $30 club and gold offer that candidates hope to garner the votes that will win the two beautiful homes now being erected by The Times and the twenty automobiles and other prizes.

OFFER ALMOST ENDED
This special offer has but a few days more to run, and candidates mean to lose no moment in getting as many new subscribers as possible. For on each $30 club of new subscriptions $5,000 extra votes are given. These extra votes, added to the regular votes given on each subscription, make vote totals climb rapidly.

The possibility of amassing $500 in gold as an extra reward for good work during this period, and making those same new subscriptions count towards the big prize is too much of a good thing to let go by. And this accounts for the increasing activity.

City candidates are working with all their might to make this offer their stepping stone to ultimate success, and not to be outdone candidates in the outside districts are swarming the mails with their new subscriptions.

NEW NOMINATION LIMIT

New nominations will be accepted only until 2 p.m. Wednesday, August 23. By taking advantage of the last $30 club and gold offer there still exists an excellent opportunity to enter the race and share in the $70,000 prize distribution on September 2. There is no chance for four persons to secure a large share of the prize as, as 10 per cent cash commissions will be paid on the new subscriptions a candidate turns in for the prize total not less than $175.

At the conclusion of the campaign the votes will be audited by the well known certified public accountants, Johnson & Pargella, 201 L. W. Hellman Building, Los Angeles. Large lists of expert accountants will be provided for this stupendous task, and the entire cost will be under the supervision of an official board of judges to be selected among the prominent men of this vicinity.

DENOUNCES RAIL ALLIANCE

Speaker at Lions Club Says Southern Pacific Slowly Strangling Productive Districts

Denouncing the Southern Pacific Railroad for its efforts to spread propaganda and discredit the Supreme Court decision divorcing the Central Pacific Railroad from the Southern Pacific Company, Frederick Faulkner, former newspaper man of San Francisco, yesterday at luncheon addressed the Lions Club.

Mr. Faulkner reviewed the events leading up to the divorce of the Southern Pacific, that the operation of the two roads in conjunction was in restraint of trade and a menace to the freedom of commerce.

QUOTES PRESIDENT
Quoting President Sproule of the Southern Pacific, Mr. Faulkner declared that he had, in February, 1912, testified under oath, in the case of the voluntary application of the Southern Pacific to sell the Central Pacific to the Union Pacific, that this sale would tend to bring about real aggressive competition between the Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific, for it would make the latter road the competitor of the Southern Pacific at every California terminal.

Mr. Sproule, declared Mr. Faulkner, insisted time and time again that the separation of the Central Pacific would aid the Southern Pacific.

In 1914, however, when the Federal government sued for the divorce of the Central Pacific from the Southern Pacific, the latter road set up a tremendous howl. Mr. Faulkner stated, declaring that it was "not fair."

After the case was argued twice in the Supreme Court, said Mr. Faulkner, that body handed down its decision ordering the District Court to prepare a decree of divorce.

Immediately this decision was handed down, declared the speaker, the Southern Pacific began a campaign against the court and the Federal government, and that it failed to take cognizance of vital facts.

DRIVE FOR NEW WORK SPEEDS UP

Rally Planned at Bowl Tonight; Campaigners on Job Until Election

Following the meeting of tonight at the Hollywood Bowl at which the new sewage disposal plan will be discussed with William Mulholland, Los Angeles aqueduct engineer as the principal speaker, the Los Angeles Sewage Campaign Committee will turn its attention to a review of the campaign.

Efforts have been made to have the Hollywood Bowl meeting to-night an attractive one for it is believed that the gathering will be the greatest of the campaign in behalf of the bonds which will be submitted to the voters on the 28th inst.

The circulation of publicity has now been extended to include the neighborhood, language and trades papers, the publicity committee reports, while an order given yesterday for 1000 banners for automobiles will play an important part in getting the bond issue before the people. These banners were donated by public spirited citizens who are not only giving out of their pockets to carry on the work, but who are also putting forth their influence in behalf of the project.

Chairman O. A. Vickery of the campaign committee has called a meeting for 7:30 o'clock Monday night in the Council room of the City Hall. This will be next to the last meeting which this committee will hold before the election and for this reason he urges that members of all committees have their reports ready for discussion.

The important work of having workers at the polls on the 28th inst. will be taken up. It is likely that a special committee will be appointed to handle the details. It is the plan to have at least one man Vickery believes that the campaign must be carried on right up to the time the votes are being cast.

The Board of Public Utilities yesterday won its battle to prevent the Board of Public Works from carrying out the latter's plan of hurrying the Utilities Board out of the City Hall and locating it in offices in the Bullard Block on North Main and North Spring streets, which has been leased by the city to be used as a City Hall annex.

The Utilities Board said that the Bullard Block was inconvenient, and with offices there they would be hampered in their work. They appealed to the City Council from the determination of the Board of Public Works to move them and the Council upheld the contention. It is expected that the City Prosecutor's office, now located in the north annex of the City Hall, will be moved to the space in the Bullard Block which had previously been assigned to the Utilities Board.

Steel reinforcements immeasurably increase the strength of concrete construction. But steel, mighty as it is, will rust and disintegrate. ## I, I, I: I, MYSELF; I THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME

A GORY STORY

Perhaps if my Grammie had been at home she would have known it was not anything serious, and my Mamma would not have been so awfully frightened when I spat up at times with a little blood in it. I had had my dinner and my Cherie and I had had a beautiful communion with each other, she murmuring soft dear things to me every once in a while during my dining. I was in perfect health, had gained my usual five or six ounces that week, and in all ways was what a husky lad of my age should be.

When Muddie put me up to her shoulder gently after nursing, so that any air that I had swallowed would come up and not cause me cramps—up came a little milk with the air. (I think I am a little greedy at times for often I spit up a little milk, but as I am a little all right I sure do get enough.) Well, when the milk came up there was a little blood in it. Mamma nearly fainted. Her face paled. She put me down gently and ran to the phone crying as she dialed my nurse. "Oh, God! Not my baby, not my baby, dear God!"

She got my Daddie on the phone, and told him to come home as soon as possible, and before he could find out anything more she hung up and got our doctor. While I realized that there was something amiss about something, it did not seem to me to be of sufficient importance to keep me awake and I went to sleep as I do usually after my nursing. Meanwhile, she walked the floor with her hands tightly clasped, crying big tears and coming over to look at me at every breath.

"When Daddie came in, breathless, he found her crying and pouring over two or three baby books. "Sweetheart! What is it? What has happened?" and he gathered her in his arms and she told him about the blood. He, too, was terribly frightened, but he bravely said: "Oh, dearest! It cannot be anything serious—it cannot be! He has been so well! Look at him, sleeping so naturally! I woke up and I cooed at them and smiled reassurance and told them as plain as I could that whatever the fuss was about, I was all right. "Look at the rascal," said Daddie. "There cannot be anything the matter with him! Didn't you find anything in the books about babies spitting blood? No? Is Doctor on the way?"

Yes, Doctor was on the way. She was with us as soon as the word was out of his mouth. "What is it, children?" was her cheery greeting when she came in, and Mamma was in tears again as she told her. Doctor listened intently. "Open your waist, I will examine you," she said.

"Oh, Doctor, you did not understand. It is not I, but the baby!"

"Yes, I understood. Let me see your breast, I thought so," said doctor. "A little crack in your nipple, my little mamma, and baby swallowed a little blood which came from it."

Mamma nearly fainted again for joy. "Oh, Doctor, I thought it was something serious and that I was going to lose my baby! A little crack in my nipple, that's all! That is all!" repeated the doctor. "That is serious enough! Don't you remember how much I emphasized the importance of your nipples being kept free from cracks? Lucky you did have the sense to keep me awake and tell me to sleep as I do usually after my nursing. You may have an abscess of the breast. Then that might mean something serious for the baby, as well as you. I want you to get a set of lead nipple shields and keep one over that nipple all the time, except when nursing, so that little crack will heal right up. You can get them at any drug store."

"Now, we'll look at Sockums." She gave me a good examination—my mouth and chest and all over. Next time, I'll tell you more about what she had my Muddie do to heal the little crack which her greedy little offspring inflicted. Ashamed I am of myself! (Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents)

TAXI ACCIDENT PROVES FATAL

Thomas Howell Dies From Injuries in Crash

Mrs. Howell in Dangerous Condition at Hospital

Drivers of Cab and Truck Held by Police

Thomas Howell of 1222 West Twenty-second street, police officer of the First National Bank, died yesterday at 4:40 p.m., at the Angeles Hospital after suffering injuries when the taxicab he was riding in with his wife earlier in the day collided with a truck and overturned at the intersection of First and Vignes streets.

His wife, soon to become a mother, was knocked unconscious and reported in a critical condition at the Angeles Hospital, late last night. She was badly lacerated about the body and face and suffered shock contusions.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell were rushed to the Receiving Hospital, where it was found Mr. Howell had sustained a basal fracture of the skull and a crushed chest. He was accompanied by his wife to the train. She had planned to visit relatives in Youngstown, O., it was stated.

The body is being held by the Draper-Engemann Undertaking Company, pending the arrival of relatives from the East. It was learned last night.

The taxi driver, Jess Williams, of 140 East Twenty-seventh street, and the driver of the truck, L. L. Duncan, of 1000 Lyons street, employee of the Wilson Packing Company, are being held by the police on suspicion of felony.

Two witnesses of the accident, J. A. Lowry of 1507 1/2 Carney street, and J. E. Weesner, a Santa Fe railway employee, rushed to the aid of the injured people, also notifying the police. The drivers of both cars were held by the police on suspicion of felony.

According to Traffic Officer Needham, witnesses stated that the taxicab was traveling more than forty miles an hour at the time of the collision. As it passed the intersection going east on First street, the truck traveling south on Vignes street, struck the rear end of the cab, it was said. The impact caused the cab to swerve wildly and turn over, pinning its occupants beneath.

The proposed purchase by the City Council of 107 motor trucks for the engineering department at a cost of approximately $500,000 was considered by the Council yesterday afternoon, and marked the real first skirmish in the great "truck war" which has been going on for weeks of various truck manufacturers to secure the contract.

City Engineer Griffin recommended that the bid of the manufacturers of the Mack truck for the entire fleet of 107 trucks be accepted, and at yesterday's session Councilman Mallard moved that the Council award the contract to the Mack company.

The Mack bid was one of the highest of the nine received. Councilman Mallard's motion was not seconded.

Then Councilman Wheeler moved, seconded by Councilman Sparks, that the contract for fifty-four of the trucks be given to the manufacturers of the Garford truck and the remaining fifty-three of the trucks be of the Moreland type. President Crawford called for a vote and it was 12 yeas, 10 nays, and 1 abstention.

CITY PURSE BULGED BY TAX MONEY

Los Angeles Gets More in Year Than Estimate of Officials Indicated

Los Angeles grows wealthier with each passing year, as County Assessor Hopkins' report is to be accepted as a criterion.

In his report to City Auditor Myers, submitted yesterday, the assessed valuation of property in Los Angeles, excluding corporation-owned properties, taxes on which are paid directly to the State and then repaid to the city, is shown as $784,418,770, or an increase of $79,519,692 over last year.

In consequence of this increase, the city will receive in taxes $440,000 more than was anticipated, bringing the total tax receipts for the year up to approximately $7,784,000.

The City Council is expected to establish by the 29th inst. the tax rate for the year. Unofficial estimates place this rate at $1.39 on each $100 property valuation, 7 cents lower than last year.

The reason for this decrease, it is said, is the fact that the Board of Public Service Commissioners is now paying all interest and sinking fund requirements on outstanding water and power bonds from its revenues.

This estimated tax rate includes the interest and sinking fund requirements on the $12,000,000 sewer bond issue to be presented to the voters at the coming primary.

Advocates of the sewer bond issue point to the predicted lower tax rate, with the sewer bond charges included, as a strong argument in favor of the bill.

WOMEN RESCUED FROM BREAKERS at Long Beach

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Aug. 7.—Mrs. Ida Wittman of Kansas City, a guest at the Hotel Virginia, was rescued from drowning beneath the Silver Spray Pier yesterday by Life Guard "Porgie" Marshall, it was revealed today. Marshall is employed by the hotel to look after the welfare of guests who go in bathing.

Mrs. Wittman had ventured out too far and had gotten into a tide rip which carried her against the piling beneath the pier when Marshall discovered her plight and went to her rescue. She was taken out from beneath the pier after a long battle with the surf and tide rip. Marshall has more than a dozen rescues to his credit this season.

Another rescue was reported to the police this morning. Miss Vivian Michelson, 18 years old, of 2199 Stanford avenue, Los Angeles, was saved from drowning in the surf at the foot of Golden avenue by George Swain, a guest at the Savoy Hotel. Life guards assisted Swain in rescuing the girl. The young woman left the beach little the worse for her experience.

F. H. Hansen was elected to fill the newly created position of purchasing agent for the Board of Education yesterday. Mr. Hansen is at present operating the Purchasing Agency, Inc., 308 Kerkwood Building, and has had a varied experience as a purchasing agent with the Fruit Growers' Supply Company, the Mexican Petroleum Company, the Johns-Manville Company, and the Johns-Manville Company of Los Angeles.

Mr. Hansen will take up his new duties next Monday and will relieve W. E. Record, business manager of the board, and members of the purchasing and distribution committee of considerable detail work in connection with the purchase of supplies and equipment. He is 32 years of age.

ROAD READY TO LAY LINE

Santa Fe Planning to Build Harbor Branch
Failure of Council to Act Holds Up Work

Million and Half Estimated Project Cost

Eight months will be required by the Santa Fe to complete the construction work required to extend its lines to Los Angeles Harbor, R. B. Ball, chief engineer of the railroad, announced yesterday. The cost of the extension is estimated at $1,600,000.

The Santa Fe has been waiting since May for the City Council to grant its application for a franchise so that work can begin, but to date the Council has not approved of the application, although the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and numerous other civic organizations have urged that the necessary permission be given by the city.

Chief Engineer Ball said yesterday:

"The Santa Fe Railway Company, one of the largest transcontinental railroads in the United States, is planning to extend its lines to Los Angeles Harbor, and the incorporation of the Santa Fe Harbor Railway Company as a subsidiary Santa Fe line to extend its track to the harbor, will mean the further development of the whole harbor district and is an imperative adjunct for the economical operation of the Santa Fe system."

EARLY SURVEYS MADE

This company has long realized the importance of Los Angeles Harbor as a seaport. In fact, surveys to extend its track to this point were made as early as 1904. It was not until 1917, however, that funds were available for the construction of this line. Final location surveys were completed at this time and construction was about to be commenced, but work was abandoned with this country's entry into the European war. Surveys were again resumed on this line in October, 1918, and it was found that on account of the new development of certain sections through which the former line passed, the railroad company's desire to separate all important highway crossings, practically a new location was necessary.

"The line as now proposed will leave the Redondo branch at El Segundo, pass through Torrance and Wilmington, and terminate at the City of Los Angeles. In order to serve adequately the harbor district it is also proposed to extend a branch of the main line along E street, Wilmington, to Fries avenue, where extensive depot grounds have been secured and where it is proposed to erect a modern depot. The track along E street will also serve to develop the large industrial district lying west of the business section of Wilmington south of Anaheim Road, which is now without railroad facilities."

TWELVE MILES LONG

The total length of the line is 12.6 miles and present plans contemplate the construction of about six miles of additional spur tracks and sidings. The total cost is estimated at $1,600,000, and about eight months will be required to construct it. The maximum grade will be 1 per cent in each direction with maximum curvature on open track of 100 feet.

"The outstanding feature of this line is that all crossings with important railroads and highways will be at grade. This is a feature which will be far superior to any railroad ever constructed in this vicinity. Public safety and convenience has been the watchword in the design and location of this line, which calls for the construction of seven separated grade structures, two with railroads and five with highways, and which will cost in excess of $500,000."

SERVE OIL FIELD

"The new Torrance-Redondo oil field, which promises to be one of the largest and richest fields in California, will be directly served by this extension, and the economical development of same is dependent on the construction of this line. In addition to this the proposed line will open up and serve a large territory for industrial use which is now without railroad service and which will tend to increase land values and aid in the further development of the harbor district."

"All surveys have been completed and over 50 per cent of the necessary right of way has been secured, but construction is being held up until such time as a franchise, which was applied for in the early part of last May, is granted by the City Council for construction of tracks in Wilmington and a separated grade crossing over Wilmington-San Pedro Road, where connection will be made with the City Belt Line track on city property for which agreement has already been made with the harbor board."

"Inability to secure this permit is holding up the Santa Fe's opportunity to assist in the development of the harbor and intermediate territory which will be of vital interest to the city of Los Angeles."

Sheriff and Deputies Are Given Praise

Sheriff Traeger and his assistants have received another resolution commending them for their brilliant work in exterminating three bandits and capturing another during an attempt to hold up the Union Ice Company, on the 8th inst.

"In the death and capture of said bandits, signal service has been rendered the city, county and State," the resolution adopted by the Board of Supervisors, which was introduced by Sheriff Traeger, a member, further complimented the men for the "courage displayed in bringing to account this desperate gang."

LAD WANTS TO REMAIN WITH DAD

Parents Divorced, Boy's Custody to be Decided by Judge Valentine

"Out of the mouths of babes—" shall come truth. While not a babe, being 11 years of age, Thomas Thatcher was consulted by Judge Valentine yesterday on the question of preference. Did he want to live with his father, divorced from Mrs. Nettie Thatcher, now Buhler, or did he choose his mother?

Thomas, consulted in chambers, showed a decided preference for the company of his father, Frederick Thatcher. He impressed the court as a bright youth, "who knows how to reason."

Mrs. Thatcher, who married Mr. Buhler, wants the boy in her new home. Mr. Thatcher wants him as a pal. It is asserted by Attorney Joseph Ford, representing Mrs. Buhler, that the boy's mind has been prejudiced against his mother. This was denied by Attorney Hancher, counsel for Mr. Thatcher.

The court told the boy he could go with his father to Camp Baldy until the 14th inst., and September 1, the boy will go to his mother to stay until the lad's permanent custody is disposed of.

Both parents were warned not to antagonize the boy against the other.

Thomas went at once to his father and held out his hand. The father shook it warmly and kissed him.

"Aren't you going to kiss your mother?" Mr. Ford asked. Thomas turned to Mrs. Buhler and they kissed.

SELLING OF CLIMATE IS SUCCESSFUL

All-Year Club's Results Inspire Supervisors to Co-operate

Results obtained, during the last year, by the All-Year Club of Southern California has inspired the supervisors of the various counties of the Southland with an enthusiasm for hearty cooperation with the club, according to addresses made at the Los Angeles Athletic Club yesterday at a luncheon given by the club to the supervisors of Southern California counties.

Harry M. Haldeman, vice-chairman of the All-Year Club, presided at the luncheon and among the guests present were Supervisor C. C. Chapman of Orange County, T. C. Gabbert, of Riverside, and M. H. Butcher of Ventura County, C. S. Corain and C. E. Grier of San Bernardino County, J. A. Packard of Riverside, J. Adams, supervisor, and O. J. Renfrew, development agent of Imperial County, F. E. Woodley and Harry W. Wright of Los Angeles, C. G. Milham, executive secretary of the club, George Young and Harry Chandler.

Indicative of the results obtained from the campaign of the All-Year Club, especially in regard to the "selling" of the Southland summer climate, Mr. Haldeman read reports from various hotels of Southern California, showing a great increase in the percentage of business done by the hotels this spring and summer over a corresponding length of time last year.

The Mission Inn at Riverside and the Virginia Hotel at Long Beach reported a large increase in business. In spite of the strike, the increase in business at the Gates Hotel for April, May and June increased 10 per cent over that of last year, and the increase in gross business at the Beverly Hills Hotel, for June and July, over last year, was 72 per cent.

Mr. Corain pointed to the fact that the increase in travel through San Bernardino County for June of the present year over June of last year amounted to $4 per cent with the Southern Pacific, 41 per cent with the Santa Fe and 55 per cent with the Union Pacific. This splendid increase, according to railroad officials, has been largely due to the activities of the All-Year Club, said Mr. Corain.

Mr. Haldeman said that the advertising done by the club this year has resulted in the reception by the club of 15,000 inquiries from people in various parts of this country and from lands overseas.

County Counsel Hill, speaking for Chairman McClellan, chairman of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, said that the supervisory body is in hearty accord with the work of the club.

Pendant for Slim Ankles? Better Beware

Arthur Nichols had a liking for slim, silk-covered ankles on others than his wife, according to an action for divorce filed yesterday by Mrs. Mary Margaret Nichols. Mr. Nichols, the complaint states, photographed a number of women, strangers to Mrs. Nichols, in poses declared to be unusual.

The complaint, which was prepared by Attorneys Jones and Craig, states that Mr. Nichols associated with a great many women on at "her shapely ankles" of amusement. He went on trips with them, and photographed them "practically in the nude."

Once, it is charged, he asked one of his beautiful friends to arrange her skirt so that he could photograph "her shapely ankles." The wife terms all this cruel and inhuman treatment.

FIRE SCORCHES LUMBER

ONLY STRANGER'S TOY

Wife Objects to Being Syndicated by "Chicken Hunting" Husband, She Tells Court

It was bad enough for her doctor-husband, Edmond F. Shanahan, to be "habitually intemperate," but when he called her an "innocent chicken" and told a stranger he might take her as he was contemplating getting a thoroughbred of the species when he returned to Los Angeles from San Diego, the wife placed the matter in the hands of the Superior Court.

In the divorce complaint Mrs. Shanahan asks for alimony of $500 a month for the support of herself and five children. According to the complaint the couple was wedded in Omaha, Neb., on September 14, 1911, the separation occurring in April of 1920.

Mrs. Shanahan asserts that her husband's foresightlessness prompted him in the year of 1917, prior to national prohibition, to purchase a large stock of liquor, placing it in their home in Omaha. Boisterous parties were given by him to his "liquor-loving friends" according to the complaint, which were the cause of constant mental anguish and humiliation.

But the most humiliating blow of all fell in April of 1922 at San Diego, according to Mrs. Shanahan's account of the incidents which were responsible for the filing of a divorce complaint, when a stranger, paying particular attention to her, was not rebuffed by her husband, but on the other hand was greatly encouraged, being told:

"You can have her. I am going to get a chicken when I get back to town."

When they returned to their home in Los Angeles the wife was told by her husband: "You are an innocent chicken and can not protect yourself," according to the complaint.

SAY TENTS ON BEACH IMMORAL

Santa Monica Ordinance Sought; "Shocking Sight" Are Reported

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent (EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.) SANTA MONICA, Aug. 17.—Tents on the beach sands are a menace to public morals, the City Commissioners decided today in instructing City Attorney A. A. Webster to prohibit the erection of tents anywhere on the beach sands within the city limits.

According to Commissioner William H. Carter, the complaints that have reached him were "shocking."

Other members of the Council agreed with Mr. Carter. They said that many of the tents had been used as dressing-rooms by bathers with "great carelessness" on the part of the occupants.

It is understood that action will soon be taken against the use of automobiles as dressing rooms. Hundreds of people now drive their cars to the beach, erect some scant covering around their cars and then dress and undress in them. This will be investigated and if it is found that this practice is against good morals it will also be stopped.

CRISWELL BEATEN BY CHIEF OAKS

Council Votes Funds for New Badges and Autos for Police

Police Chief Oaks and Councilman Mushet yesterday again ran their legislative steam roller over President Criswell of the City Council, who has been blocking for several weeks the Chief's efforts to secure 1500 badges for his badgeless policemen and fifty Dodge automobiles for the department, the Council voting to appropriate $6000 for the badges and also approving of the necessary appropriation of funds to purchase the Dodge automobiles.

Councilman Mushet, who arose from a sick bed on Wednesday to come to the City Hall and with Councilman Mallard put through, over President Criswell's protests, a majority committee report appropriating the money for the badges, again returned to the City Hall yesterday to lead the fight before the Council for the appropriation. After the vote was taken and the victory won, Councilman Mushet returned to his home.

The Council, also over President Criswell's negative vote adopted the majority Finance Committee's report recommending that the design of the new police badge be left to the decision of the Chief and the Board of Police Commissioners. The commission is expected to meet today or tomorrow and approve of the new design for which the Chief has fought for weeks. The action puts into the discard the efforts of President Criswell, backed by Councilman Wheeler, to cause the adoption of a police badge of a triangular design. Chief Oaks said that he would not accept the triangular badge.

"Please Forgive Me," He Writes
Then Ends Life

Leaving a hastily written note indicating that he had become discouraged because of ill-health, John Wright, aged 26 years, yesterday afternoon ended his life by firing a bullet into his brain in his room at 528 North St. Louis street.

His body was found by his grandmother, Mrs. Ida Jones. Beside it was a discharged .35-caliber automatic pistol and the following note:

"Dear Mother and Grandmother: Please forgive me for what I have done. I could see no hope for the future. You did everything for me you could. I have tried to rally many times but it is of no use. Please give me a cheap burial as possible. Forgive me for what I have done. Lovingly, John."

The young man's mother was absent at the time, according to the police. Mrs. Jones told the police that her grandson had been living at the beach for several months where he was employed in one of the amusement concessions. She said that he had complained of feeling ill several hours before he shot himself.

CONFERENCE ON RAIL STRIKE

Operators and Union Labor
Chiefs Hold Meeting

But Few Indefinite Hints
Allowed to Get Out

To Assemble This Morning
for Further Work

(By A. P. MONT WEA.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Railway executives and brotherhood chiefs today wrestled with the problems of settling the shopman's strike and then adjourned until tomorrow without scoring a fall.

Tomorrow, while President Harding is expected to appear before Congress with a message on the rail situation, the conference will reassemble in an effort to come to grips on the slippery question of seniority.

DAY OF CONFERENCES
Today was a day of conferences, among brotherhood chiefs this morning, between brotherhood chiefs and executives this afternoon, and between brotherhood chiefs and shop crafts officials this evening.

The first gathering over which Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers presided, was called for the ostensible purpose of framing a concrete program to be submitted to the executives. The brotherhood men, who made it plain that their position was solely of mediators, went into the afternoon parley without breathing a word of the proposals for a strike settlement which they were believed to have drawn up.

COMMITTEES SILENT
But if the train service men were silent, representatives of the striking shop crafts gathered to await the result of the conference, made it plain that they did not believe any proposal would be made by the running trades which would include a sacrifice of their seniority rights. While representatives of the strikers would not permit themselves to be quoted, they indicated they would stand firm as ever on the proposition that they must be taken back with their seniority ranking unimpaired.

A committee representing the executives, headed by T. Deyitt Cuyler, chairman of their organization, lunched together and then went to the conference chamber, where they awaited the arrival of the mediators. At 2 p.m., the conference was on.

HINTS ESCAPE

Two hints of what had transpired escaped. First, the executives sent for files containing decisions of the Railroad Labor Board in which that body, in rulings bearing on other strikes, had directed that strikers should forfeit seniority rights. This was taken to indicate that the question of seniority, which had figured so prominently in the two efforts by President Harding to end the strike, had bobbed up again. The second hint was obtained from Julius K. Kruttschnitt, chairman of the board of Southern Pacific, who, leaving the conference shortly before it adjourned, indicated that little progress had been made.

The official story of the parley was contained in a communique issued by Mr. Cuyler, as follows: "A conference was held this afternoon between a committee of the carriers and the heads of the five-train service organizations who wished it to be distinctly understood that they appeared as mediators of their own motion. A discussion of the present railroad situation, so far as it relates to the shop crafts strike, took place. The question involved was discussed with the honest desire to arrive at a solution of the problem if possible. No definite conclusion was arrived at and the conference adjourned until tomorrow morning."

STRIKE LEADERS CONFERENCE

Upon leaving their conference with the executives the brotherhood men hastened to their hotel to discuss the day's developments with the heads of the seven other unions. Prior to adjournment of the meeting, however, Mr. Jewell issued two statements. The first merely stated that "the officers of all the railroad labor organizations are here now, continuing as they have been, the strike to do everything possible to bring about an honorable settlement."

The second advanced the opinion that the settlement of the coal strike would, to a large degree, determine the settlement of the railroad strike, because the roads in the next few weeks would be called on to move the greatest amount of coal in history, and at present there was an unprecedented proportion of bad order cars. The point made by Mr. Jewell—that "it is safe to say there will be places for one and one-half times the normal number of men in coal car repair shops"—was emphasized by other labor leaders who pointed out that more bad order cars were constantly piling up. This, they contended, would make it possible for executives to take back all strikers and still not be forced to discharge new employees.

BY INSURANCE

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

EL CENTRO, Aug. 17.—Fire at Imperial last night is estimated to have inflicted $30,000 loss in building, grain and machinery at the E. W. Chase warehouse and packing sheds. The Balfour Guthrie & Co. warehouse nearby was undamaged and damaged by water from the fire hose. The Chase warehouse contained about 7000 sacks of grain, which were destroyed with about 60 per cent insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown. Electricity endangered spectators and members of the fire department until the current was shut off, which left the town in darkness. Warehouse buildings and machinery destroyed carried $9000 insurance with $2500 on the packing shed.

COUNCIL RESCINDS ACTION

Frees Wilshire Boulevard of Permit Recently Passed
Allowing Business Beyond La Brea

The City Council yesterday unanimously voted to rescind the action it took on August 7 under which business and commercial establishments would have been permitted to locate on Wilshire Boulevard between La Brea avenue and the western city limits.

When the vote was taken yesterday, members of the City Planning Commission who attended the session applauded the action of the Council, as the commission, with the Community Development Association, has taken a strong stand against business being permitted to locate on Wilshire Boulevard. The Community Development Association is now fostering a plan to widen Wilshire Boulevard to 200 feet and to make of it one of the greatest scenic boulevards in America, stretching from Westlake Park to the sea. ## Asserts Hubby Has Two Wives; It's Too Many Richard F. Francis wooed and won his wife, Blanche N. Francis in Santa Ana, Cal. The marriage vows were taken on July 1.

Within ten days, when the couple separated, according to Mrs. Francis in a complaint filed yesterday for annulment of the marriage, she learned her husband had wooed and won twice before and that both wives were alive and duly wedded to her husband.

Richard married his first wife in New York City in 1906, according to the complaint, and resented the trick on Independence Day, 1918, in Waukegan, Ill. "No other woman shall call my husband," the third wife indignantly declared and straightway she consulted an attorney, who prepared her complaint.

It is stated that Mr. Small obtained positions for the actresses, the terms being 10 per cent of the salaries they received. The agreement brought Miss Nilsson a $10,000 salary and Miss McAvoy, $7250, it is said.

He was later brought to Los Angeles and lodged in jail here.

Kyle's arrest is said to have been brought about by relatives of Mrs. Lanon, who also claim Mrs. Lanon's estate.

Kyle produced the sensational letters in Judge Riva's court here, in an attempt to show that he was Mrs. Lanon's son, and therefore heir to her property.
